MERGER HEAD PLEDGES HELP FOR FARMERS

Morgenthau Asserts New Credit Combine Will Be for Them.

WHEAT AND COTTON STOCKS TO BE SOLD

Appropriation to Be Asked Soon So Work Can Be Carried On.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ.

The new Farm Credit Administration, formed yesterday by President Roosevelt in grouping together all Government agencies for agricultural loans, will be administered "for the farmers and in the interest of the farmers," Henry Morgenthau, jr., head of the new unit, said yesterday.

In the first use of his new power to reorganize Federal agencies, President Roosevelt established under one head a diminished Farm Board, the Farm Loan Bureau, the Crop Production Loan Office, the Seed Loan Office, and the agricultural credit facilities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Department of Agriculture and the Treasury. Mr. Morgenthau, who was head of the Farm Board, will continue as head of the new agency.

From the Department of Agriculture itself came the long-awaited plan to adjust farm mortgages through Federal financing. The plan was not labeled as the administration measure, but it was similar to one discussed at the White House.

Board to Sell Cotton and Wheat.

The credit agency reorganization must be approved by Congress before it becomes effective, after 61 days. The new agency is directed to wind up the stabilization efforts of the Farm Board and sell the 28,000 bales of cotton and the 30,000,000 bushels of wheat bought by the board. It will also end the aid to the Red Cross and turn back to the Treasury about $2,600,000 of unexpended funds provided for relief work.

The Credit Administration will continue the loans to cooperative associations under the policy of the old Farm Board. The overlapping of the regional credit facilities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Crop Loan Office will also be remedied, Mr. Morgenthau said. The new offices will be brought under Civil Service and the regular auditing service of the Government.

Inasmuch as most of the appropriations for the various agencies have expired or will do so shortly, Mr. Morgenthau said he would have to seek a new appropriation to carry

JEWISH 'INJUSTICE' HIT AT SESSION HERE

3,000 Attend Mass Meeting; U. S. Is Urged to Make Representations.

By A. N. WECKSLER.

More than 3,000 persons crowded the Belasco Theater last night and, after hearing distinguished clergymen and laymen representing many denominations express sympathy and support, unanimously adopted a resolution in protest of "cruel and unjustifiable persecution" of Jews in Germany.

Charles Edward Russell, aged author and philosopher suggested several methods of stopping the "inhuman treatment" of members of the Jewish race by the Nazi government, among them boycott of German merchandise.

The crowd which overflowed to the lobby of the theater accepted Russell's suggestions with loud applause. He stated that as the Jews have no homeland from which they can officially register protest against maltreatment of members of their faith, the United States, always the champion of democracy, would be the proper channel of protest.

He advised all sympathizers of justice to continue the protest spirit beyond the walls of the meeting house and not to be decieved by the denials, "official, semiofficial and partly official" issued from German sources.

Russell asserted that until Germany "removes the blot from her flag" he would not buy anything which had her mark on it and he exhorted all Americans to follow his example.

Senator William H. King, of Utah, told the group that in the light of the past achievements and culture of the German people it was "inconceivable that they would tolerate the persecution of such a great race as the Jews."

He stated that when Germany was received into the League of Nations, she was regarded as a potential great power for good, and that she "still has that power if she does not dash the overflowing cup of good to the ground."

"If the government known as the

Suburb Constable Pleads Rum Guilt

E. J. Blackwell, of Capitol Heights, Is Arraigned in Baltimore.

Baltimore, March 27 (A.P.).—Earl J. Blackwell, a constable at Capitol Heights, a suburb of Washington, today pleaded guilty to charge of sale of liquor, possession and the maintenance of a nuisance at his home.

Donald P. Roman, assistant United States district attorney, described for Federal Judge William C. Coleman the circumstances that led to Blackwell's arrest last fall.

He said Special Agent John T. Wiegall, who was sent to investigate Blackwell, made purchases of liquor from Blackwell a number of times and that Blackwell told the agent he could sell whisky for a low price because it had been seized in raids.

RESERVE BANK CASH SITUATION GROWS BETTER

More Than Half Billion Gold and Currency Returned.

HISTORIC FINANCIAL OPERATIONS BARED

Flexibility of System, Put to Serve Test, Meets All Requirements.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Vast improvement in the money and gold position of the Federal Reserve System during the last two weeks was reported yesterday in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Board for February and March.

Up to March 22 a total of $558,000,000 of gold coin and gold certificates had been returned to the twelve regional Reserve banks, and no less than $319,000,000 in other currency had flowed back after the period of preholiday stress.

In reviewing the central bank operations for the month, the survey revealed some of the most gigantic financial operations in the history of the world. Not even in war times had such large-scale operations been more successfully executed.

Flexibility Meets Test.

The flexibility of the Reserve system was adequate to meet all demands from member banks, and as soon as the call for currency returned to normal the excessive withdrawals of February were sent back promptly to the Reserve banks to be retired from circulation.

The contraction of $539,000,000 in member bank loans in the large cities during February marked one of the sharpest shrinkages in this item for one month in all Federal Reserve history.

"During February member banks in leading cities were subjected to withdrawals of deposits on a large scale, reflecting in part withdrawals of balances by interior banks from their city correspondents and in part withdrawals of currency by the public," the official review recites. "As a consequence, net demand deposits of these banks declined by $1,306,000,000 during the month and their time deposits by $360,000,000.

Loans Cut Half Billion.

"In order to meet these withdrawals the banks reduced their loans by $539,000,000, partly through the sale of acceptances to the Reserve banks, and their investments by $363,000,000. They also increased considerably

White Hall Bay Yields Bodies of 2 Young Men

Annapolis, Md., March 27 (A.P.).—The bodies of two young men, drowned when their canoe capsized in a storm on White Hall Bay Saturday, were found today after a 24-hour search by naval planes and boats.

They were Marion Daudree, 24, and Albert Knopp, 21, who were employed on a yacht owned by Sylvester W. Labrot, southern Maryland financier and turfman. The bodies were found near the capsized canoe, which had been washed ashore.

Fugitive Kills Self At ShootingGallery

Was Wanted in Funds Case, Note Reveals; Widow Lives in Virginia.

Long Beach, Calif., March 27 (A.P.).—John A. Rucker, 37, mail clerk on the U. S. S. Vestal, told an attendant at a shooting gallery today: "Let's see how good I am."

Rucker emptied four rifles. His marksmanship was far above the average. A crowd gathered to watch.

"I'll try it again," he said, and picked up a fifth rifle. With the crowd gazing in horror stricken, he shot himself through the brain. A note in Rucker's clothing said he was wanted by the Navy for being absent from his ship without leave since March 21 and by Federal authorities for misappropriation of funds.

His widow, Mrs. Gladys K. Rucker, lives at Craddock, a suburb of Portsmouth, Va.

Dog Poisoner

Believed Responsible for Several Canine Deaths in Potomac Heights.

Following the deaths of about ten dogs from poisoning during the last few days, residents of the Potomac Heights section are of the opinion that there is a "hater of dogs" in their midst, and are justly aroused about it.

The deaths of valuable dogs from poisoning have occurred intermittently in that Northwest section for more than a year, but it began to reach epidemic proportions last Friday when seven dogs died from the effects of poison, believed to have been given them in food.

It is believed the poisoning of the dogs is the work of a crank, who probably became annoyed by the number of dogs in that section.

Among those who have lost their dogs are Walter F. Holtgreve, 5407 Carolina place; and Charles T. Jones, 5114 Cathedral avenue. Howard Maurice, 5007 Cathedral avenue, found his collie dog poisoned, but discovered it in time to save the dog's life. Most of the dogs were poisoned at night and died before morning.

U. S. WILL PROTEST JAPANESE BOMBING

Consul to Act on Air Raid in Which Missionaries Were Endangered.

Peiping, China (Tuesday), March 28 (U.P.).—The United States will make representations to the Japanese diplomatic authorities here as a result of an air raid by Japanese planes that bombed the American Methodist Mission property at Taotowying, near Peiping, it was announced today.

United States Minister Nelson T. Johnson said that as a result of his study of official reports on the bombing, which killed nine Chinese men, women and children and endangered the lives of two American missionaries, he would take up the incident with Shotchi Nakayama, Japanese charge d'affaires here, at once.

Mr. Johnson said he intended to point out emphatically that the American flag was flying over the residence of the American missionaries, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kautto, at the time of the aerial bombardment of the mission property.

His representation will point out the gravity of aerial raids inside the Great Wall, where numreous Americans reside, particularly in the cities of Peiping and Tientsin.

The minister was expected to request assurances that American lives and property would be safeguarded.

THREE NATIONS' ENVOYS START PARLEYS HERE

ECONOMIC SESSION IS TOPIC OF BRITONS

Claudel Visits Roosevelt as Italians Put Four-Power Plan Before Hull.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Negotiations embracing almost every phrase of international relations were yesterday initiated here by the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy. They were as follows:

First, British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, accompanied by the new financial counselor of the British Embassy here, T. K. Bewley, conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull for more than one hour on the details of the proposed world economic conference and the relation of the war debts to the subjects already on the agenda; Secretary Hull was accompanied by the economist of the Department of State, Dr. Herbert Feis and Assistant Secretary Raymond Moley.

Second, President Roosevelt held an informal conversation with French Ambassador Paul Claudel, who was presenting French Deputy Jacques Stern, a member of the finance committee of the French Chamber of Deputies and one of the supporters of the proposed Herriot resolution to pay the deferred French debt installment of December 15 last.

Four-Power Pact.

Third, Italian Ambassador Augusto Rosso formally acquainted the State Department with the details of Mussolini's four-power pact, elaborated recently in Rome during the visit there of British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

This is the first official information received here of the details of he Duce's strikingly practical solution of the European political dilemma. Ambassador Rosso declined to comment on the object of his visit, but declared he hoped to be able to give the details of the plan in a few days. In the meantime, however, it was learned from high sources that the Mussolini plan contains in its premises considerable similarity with the report of European conditions in disarmament recently presented to President Roosevelt by American Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis.

Mussolini developed the four-power pact idea after MacDonald had urged acceptance by the Italian government

Marriage Law Repeal Beaten in California

Sacramento, Calif., March 27 (A.P.).—An attempt to repeal the California three-day marriage law failed in the Assembly today by a vote of 59 to 14.

Sponsors of the measure to repeal the law said counties have lost considerable revenue in licenses because couples have gone to adjoining States, principally Reno, Nev., to get married.

Man Convicted of Murder Clear as Killer Confesses

Lynchburg Prisoner Pleads Guilty in Rustburg and Lawyers of Other Begin Move at Once to Release Their Client.

Rustburg, Va., March 27 (A.P.).—Another chapter of the Brockenbrough case was recorded in Campbell County Circuit Court here today when Charlie Dixon, 36, a Lynchburg Negro, was found guilty of the murder of William J. Rowse last July and his punishment was fixed at 20 years in prison.

Arraigned after a special grand jury had indicted him, Dixon pleaded guilty. Judgment was murder in the second degree.

John Brockenbrough was convicted of second degree murder of Rowes in the same court last autumn and was given seven years, although he maintained throughout the five days trial he was innocent.

Dixon's confession in Lynchburg that he and Bob Harris, another Negro, were in a fight with Rowse and that Dixon shot him, shifted suspicion from Brockenbrough.

Immediately after the trial ended at 3 p. m. today, Judge Halsey went into conference with Commonwealth's Attorney Samuel C. Stowers and Brockenbrough's attorneys, Bentley B. Campbell and S. Duval Martin, to ascertain what steps were necessary to have an appeal withdrawn from the Virginia Supreme Court.

Brockenbrough obtained a writ of error, but the case is not scheduled to come up for argument until next autumn. In order to save the Brockenbroughs further expense, attorneys said they wished to have the case dropped and at the same time have their client exonerated in the eyes of the law.

Anti-Semitism Exposure Advocated by Al Smith

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith told thousands of Jews, massed in Madison Square Garden tonight in protest against anti-semitism of the German Hitler government, that the "only thing to do is to drag it out in the open sunlight and give it the same treatment we gave the Ku Klux Klan."

SLASH OF $11,000,000 IN DISTRICT'S BUDGET IS URGED BY DOUGLAS

Federal Cuts Likely To Total 15 Per Cent

U. S. Survey Shows Rent, Food and Clothing Down 23 Per Cent Since 1928; Slashes Expected by April 1.

(Associated Press.)

A formal report from the Department of Labor that living costs in the United States have dropped 23 per cent since 1928 is expected in administration circles to bring to 15 per cent the cut in the salaries of Government employes, effective April 1.

The reduction would be applicable upon the base salary of the workers and not in addition to the furlough plan, which is to be dropped. This plan, imposed during the present fiscal year, involved a cut of about 8 1-3 per cent by compelling leaves without pay.

The President was empowered by the economy bill to reduce salaries up to 15 per cent based upon the reduction in living costs.

The executive order for the action is being prepared by the Budget Bureau and official word has gone out that it would be issued in time to take effect the first of the month.

After a special survey, the Labor Department's Bureau of statistics reported the following drops in costs between 1928 and December, 1932:

Foods, 37 per cent; clothing, 25 per cent; rent 24 per cent; fuel and lights, 13 per cent; house furnishings, 26 per cent; miscellaneous, including doctors, medicines, street car fares, moving pictures, newspapers, telephones, laundry, toilet articles and tobacco, four-tenths of 1 per cent.

The costs of living in the District of Columbia was placed at 21 per cent less.

BEER BILL SLOWED TO MAKE IT MODEL

Senator Tydings Strives to Draw District Measure as Guide to Nation.

The District beer bill moved slowly yesterday in its certain progress toward enactment as Chairman Millard E. Tydings, of the Senate District Beer subcommittee, began a study to make the measure the model legislation House and Senate leaders desire it to be.

In extended conference yesterday with legislative draftsmen and representatives of the corporation counsel's office, Senator Tydings delayed placing the rewritten bill before his subcommittee.

It became apparent the Senate will proceed with more caution and less speed than the House, in the interest of perfecting an act to be a model for the country. It is even possible that the measure may not become law by April 7, the date set for the national bill to go into effect.

Those who took this view pointed out that even after the bill is acted on by the Senate subcommittee, full District Committee action must be taken on the measure. Chairman William H. King indicated it will be submitted to the District Commissioners for recommendations before it is reported to the Senate.

The Senate can not take action until such national measures as the President's reforestation recommendations, and pending relief legislation are cleared from its dockets. Then a conference probably will be demanded with the House, when dif-

High Court Gives Volpe Review on Deportation

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday granted Anthony Volpe a review on his effort to obtain release from arrest in Chicago for deportation to Italy.

Volpe, allegedly a leader in a smuggling ring linked with the Capone organization in Chicago, was arrested for deportation in 1931 under a drive by Federal agents to run criminal aliens out of the country. He fought for release on habeas corpus and won, only to have the seventh circuit court of appeals reverse its decision.

Mrs. Walker Wins Complete Divorce

Florida Judge Signs Final Decree After Charges of Desertion.

Miami, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Janet Allen Walker today received a final decree of divorce to conclude the suit she brought some time ago against James J. Walker, former Mayor of New York City.

The decree was signed late today by Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammell, and was in accordance with the recommendation of Master in Chancery T. J. Dowdell, who heard evidence in the case last Tuesday.

Mrs. Walker asked for the divorce on a plea of desertion and testified her husband left their home in New York City in 1928. She testified she was ignorant as to his reason for moving, and said he "just left me." Walker, now in Cannes, France, did not appear at the divorce hearing.

FARM AND AID BILLS WHITE HOUSE TOPIC

Parley Outlines Procedure; Senate Forestry Plan Vote Seen Today.

(Associated Press.)

Procedure for the Roosevelt farm and relief measures in the Senate was mapped last night at a White House conference.

President Roosevelt talked things over with Secretary Wallace, Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, the party leader, and Harrison, of Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee. He consulted them, also, on the farm mortgage refinancing bill now taking shape.

Robinson predicted the Senate would dispose today of the pending reforestation measure. The White House conference considered adding the $500,000,000 direct relief bill to this measure, but it was decided finally to give it separate consideration.

Robinson said, however, an amendment might be added to the reforestation bill which would modify or remove the existing limitation of 15 per cent in advances which may be made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to States for relief purposes.

The party leader was confident that the farm commodity bill before the agriculture committee would be ready for Senate consideration by the first of next week.

He looked favorably upon a suggestion to add the mortgage refinancing proposal to the farm bill.

Robinson said the question of speedy action on the $500,000,000 relief measure introduced yesterday by Senators Wagner (Democrat), New York; La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, arose because of the 15 per

Los Angeles, March 27 (A.P.).—Believed to have come aboard at San Francisco, a robber victimized several officers and passengers of the palatial British liner, Empress of Britain, today, it was learned when the ship arrived in Los Angeles Harbor. The total loss was $631.50.

The burglar got $3.50 from Capt. R. G. Latta, the commander, who is an officer in the royal navy reserve. Others robbed included:

Dr. H. B. Thornton, London, $140; P. J. Folvey, Chicago, $140; H. Wesley, of England, $220; Mrs. Rose O'Brien, stewardess, $100; Mrs. Hope Jebb Glasgow, $8.

Santiago, Chile, March 27 (A.P.).—As President Arturo Alessandri was enjoying his daily walk today he passed a group of men on the Boulevard Alemida and one of them shouted an insulting remark to him. The president whirled about, raised his cane and beat the fellow severely. A crowd applauded.

In Senor Alessandri's first term there was a similar incident. That time he chastised a student leader. The president is 64 and vigorous.

Teacher, Fire and Police Salary Funds Cut.

HEARINGS DUE TO BEGIN SOON

Estimates Hit Schools and Streets Hard; Fight Expected.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The District government yesterday received its first taste of what the Roosevelt administration means by "real economy" when a $30,332,200 District budget, slashed nearly $11,000,000 under current appropriations was sent to the House by Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas.

District officials learned with something of a jolt that the Federal "lump sum," traditional bone of contention between House and Senate, had been cut to $5,700,000, 26.8 per cent below the $7,775,000 "compromise" worked out last year. Total estimates were $6,239,447 under the conference agreement reached at the close of last session.

Schools and streets were the items hardest hit. School construction totaling $876,000, including the proposed Woodrow Wilson High School, the Logan Elementary School and additions to the Deal and Brown Junior High Schools, were thrown out of the bill.

Bridge Funds Eliminated.

Funds for construction of Calvert Street Bridge over Rock Creek and seven major street improvement projects were eliminated, paving the way to another surplus in the Treasury from unexpended gasoline tax funds. Highway repair appropriations were cut from $2,277,850 to $1,237,400.

First application of the 15 per cent salary cut ordered in the economy bill was made in this measure. Salary items were scaled down accordingly from the $5,427,360 allowed for teachers' pay to $4,370,000 for police and fire salaries.

An item of $1,250,000 was included for emergency relief activities in the next fiscal year, doubling the $625,000 appropriation proposed in the last bill, which would have financed relief work for only the first six months of the period.

Hearings Are Near.

House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan announced hearings will begin tomorrow or next day on major changes in the bill. He conferred with Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, former chairman of the District subcommittee, as soon as the estimates reached the Capitol.

The drastic budget alterations were explained only in general by Director Douglas in his brief letter of transmittal. In addition to the $30,302,200 in annual appropriations recommended, $2,697,500 in permament

Later he noticed they had crawled into the motor car and apparently were asleep. Attempting to awaken them, Alley discovered the children were dead, apparently from carbon monoxide fumes.

FIERY CLASHES SNAG OIL PARLEY ADVANCE

Rump Session Held Amid Stormy Scene; Leaders Seek Panaceas.

(Associated Press.)

After a day marked by heated clashes between divergent factions, representatives of oil producers and the governors of producing States worked privately last night in search of proposals to be placed before the administration-sponsored oil conference today.

One faction, labeling itself as "uncontrolled independent producers," however, broke away from the general group and last night held a stormy protest meeting at a hotel.

Its leader, John B. Elliott, of the Independent Petroleum Association, of California, maintained that the larger companies were putting forward a program that would "work to the detriment of the real independents and to the people." He led his group out of a meeting Sunday, asserting that it was "packed in the interest of the major oil companies."

Secretary Ickes, who called the conference in an effort to see if some iron-clad agreement could be obtained to curtail overproduction, last night expressed himself optimistic, nevertheless, after meeting with a committee of 15 appointed by a majority of the oil representatives.

Equal Representation Given.

The committee of 15, headed by Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, was named so as to include five men representing various State governors, five representing major companies and five from one faction of the independent producers.

It gathered late yesterday for a two-hour meeting with Ickes. The principal proposal before them, it was said, was a resolution passed Sunday by a group of nearly 200 men, with Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, acting as chairman. It was this meeting from which Elliott walked out.

The resolution declared that within their respective spheres "the Federal and State governments should cooperate in prevention of waste, perfection of conservation efforts and in steps to enable the oil industry to lead the way out of the depression."

The Federal Government, the resolution pointed out, can assist the movement by preventing interstate transportation of oil in violation of the law. This clause was described as aimed at the "bootleg" producers who are held partly responsible for the overproduction of petroleum.

Adequate Tariff Asked.

Other means by which it is contended the Washington Government can assist the industry includes continuation of the Federal Oil Conservation Board; by imposing an adequate competitive tariff on crude petroleum; by eliminating the tax on domestic refined products and on pipe lines, and by vigorous prosecution for evasion of the Federal gasoline tax.

Cooperation between the oil-producing States could be brought about, the resolution said, by appealing to the industry in States without adequate laws to limit production in harmony with the fair allocation of the national consumptive demand.

The committee of 15 last night left in the hands of a subcommittee of 6 the drafting of concrete proposals to be placed before the conference today.

Congress Groups Approve Forest and Loan Measures

$500,000,000 for Direct Advances to States Will Pass by Friday, Wagner Is Confident; Labor Believed Satisfied in Pay Objection.

(Associated Press.)

Congress hastened yesterday toward enactment of the first two steps in President Roosevelt's unemployment relief program—work for 250,000 men in the Nation's forests, and $500,000,000 for direct Federal aid to the destitute.

In a swirl of rapid developments, the forestation plan was approved by committees at both ends of the Capitol as the direct relief bill was introduced and marked for speedy approval, possibly as an amendment to the other measure.

The Senate shortly afterward opened debate on the revised bill to put the jobless to work in the forests, but action was postponed until today by Senator McNary, Republican leader.

The House agreed to take up the measure tomorrow after its Labor Committee had rejected a substitute offered by Chairman Connery and approved the Roosevelt sponsored bill.

Far-reaching in its scope, the $500,000,000 bill was laid before Congress by Senators Wagner (Democrat), New York; Costigan (Democrat), Colorado; and La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, who have been working on it at the request of the President.

Wagner expressed confidence the bill would be enacted by Friday, either separately or as part of the forestation measure, since at least one State—Illinois—has about exhausted its quota under the present Reconstruction Corporation fund.

In sharp contrast with the Federal Government's past policy, the bill proposes to create a fund for outright grants to the States instead of loans.

From the first $200,000,000 each State would be allowed one-third of the total public funds expended for relief by its political subdivisions during the preceding three-month period.

The remaining $300,000,000 would be allocated on the basis of need by a Federal relief administrator responsible directly to the President. This administrator would take over responsibility for Federal relief funds from the R. F. C., but the latter would raise the money through borrowing.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, attempted to obtain Senate approval of the forestation bill yesterday, but McNary objected and asked that it go over until today.

As approved by the committee the bill will permit the President to enlist 250,000 men in a civilian conservation corps at $1 a day, as he originally proposed. It is broad in its terms, however, and does not write into the law the $1 a day wage proposal to which organized labor objected.

Walsh appealed to the Senate to approve the bill on its present broad basis as an emergency measure.

"I am informed the President will place in charge of the project a representative of organized labor and in view of that it is assured it will be carried on under regulations and rules acceptable to labor," he said.

ANSELL SUIT SEEKS $500,000 FROM LONG

Avers Senator Sent Copies of His Speech to All Parts of Country.

Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, yesterday was named defendant in a $500,000 suit for alleged libel by Samuel T. Ansell, former judge advocate of the Army, who acted as special counsel for a Senate committee which investigated the election of Senator John H. Overton, of Louisiana.

The suit is the second filed against Senator Long by Gen. Ansell, the first, also seeking $500,000, having been filed here two weeks ago. The basis of that suit was alleged slander for remarks made about Gen. Ansell on the floor of the Senate.

In his suit yesterday, Gen. Ansell charged Senator Long had sent out copies of his speech to all parts of the country. Subheads contained in the article formed the basis of the contention that Gen. Ansell had been libeled.

In one subhead, Gen. Ansell says he is referred to as the "dog, son of a wolf." In another he is allegedly referred to as "a burglar." These, it was contended, were written into the speech while it was being reprinted for distribution throughout the country. Attorneys Burr, Tracy, Ansell and George M. Wilmeth filed the action in District Supreme Court in behalf of Gen. Ansell.

U.S. BANK PROBERS ARRIVE IN DETROIT

Prosecutor Quizzes Cleric Following His Charge of "Tip-Off."

Detroit, March 27 (A.P.).—A group of tight-lipped representatives of the Federal Government moved into Detroit today to investigate its banking situation as reverberations continued from the controversy over the Treasury Department's refusal to permit reopening of the city's two largest national banks.

The investigators were headed by John S. Pratt, Assistant United States Attorney General, who said his mission was "highly confidential" and would not be the subject of interviews. He came specifically to investigate the affairs of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce. The results of his investigations, he said, would be reported to Washington and acted upon there.

Telegram Sent Roosevelt.

Coincident with the arrival of the investigators, E. D. Stair, newspaper publisher and banker, made public a telegram to President Roosevelt in which he referred to an attack made upon him yesterday by the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, and urged a complete investigation of the local situation.

Father Coughlin, meanwhile, was being interviewed by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, concerning certain charges he made in an address yesterday in which he denounced the Detroit Bankers Co., holding company for the First National Bank, and its directors. Mr. Stair, who is publisher of the Detroit Free Press, also is the nonsalaried president of the Detroit Bankers Co.

Inside Information, Charge.

Father Coughlin in his address charged that $63,000,000 had been taken from the First National Bank on "inside information" immediately preceding the banking holiday and asserted that the bank was only 12½ per cent liquid a few days before the holiday, although depositors were being told it was 80 per cent liquid.

Mr. Stair, in his telegram to the President, referred to Father Coughlin's remarks as a "slanderous attack" against "myself and other citizens of this city." "Father Coughlin," he added, "presents himself from time to time as the spokesman for your administration."

Ford Motor Deposit.

The new bank, which opened last Friday with the backing of General Motors Corporation and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced late this evening that the Ford Motor Co. deposited $1,000,000 late today.

In Washington today a group of Detroiters seeking to have the Treasury Department recall its decision to wind up the affairs of the First National and the Guardian National Banks conferred for an hour with Jesse Jones, director of the R. F. C., and decided to submit their views in writing.

Gov. William A. Comstock and R. E. Reichert, State banking commissioner, today announced the appointment of conservators for 58 State-chartered banks, bringing the total such banks under conservators to 84.

WORLD COURT MOVE URGED BY ROBINSON

(Associated Press.)

Senate Democratic leaders moved to enlarge the extra session program yesterday to include action on the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and the proposal for American adherence to the world court, but stipulated that neither should interfere with the administration's emergency measures.

Shortly after the Foreign Relations Committee favorably reported the American-Canadian pact for a $540,000,000 navigation and power project on the St. Lawrence River, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority chief, said he would ask the committee tomorrow to report the world court resolution.

Both of these proposals were reported in the last Congress, but automatically reverted to committee when the Senate failed to act on them.

"We ought to adopt or reject the world court resolution," Robinson told newspapermen. "It's been around here long enough."

As for the St. Lawrence treaty, he said:

"I expect it will be taken up. Of course, the emergency program will have priority. There is no intention of trying to hasten action unduly, but it is in a position where it may be taken up at any time when the Senate is not engaged in emergency legislation."

This might also be applied to the World Court, Robinson said, pointing out that if the two propositions had been before the Senate last week, for instance, a two-day recess could have been utilized for their consideration.

The waterway pact was returned to the Senate calendar by a vote of 14 to 2, with Senators Wagner, New York, and Lewis, Illinois, Democrats, opposing a favorable report.

Robinson would make no predictions as to the chances of passage of either the waterway or World Court proposals. A two-thirds vote will be required to adopt either or both.

Occoquan Is Fled By Three Women

Prisoners Leave Quarters Unnoticed; Wide Hunt Is Started.

Three young women, inmates of the District Workhouse at Occoquan, Va., were objects of an extensive search last night following their disappearance from the women's dormitory shortly before dawn yesterday.

The trio eluded guards and walked from their quarters unnoticed. They are Violet Fleming, 26, sentenced last September on narcotic charges; Dorothy Welderman, alias Patricia Fortner, 21, sentenced in October for false pretenses, and Nellie Jordon, 22, serving sentence on larceny charges. The Fleming and Jordon women are from Washington, while their companion lives in Baltimore. All had completed more than half of their sentences.

Capt. M. M. Barnard, general superintendent of District penal institutions, expressed belief they escaped in a waiting automobile.

Bank Case Reports Assured by Woodin

Irregularities Data Not to Be Delayed Under New Regime, He Says.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin, answering questions as to a six months' delay in submitting a formal report on "irregularities" in the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. of New York, yesterday asserted there would be no delay in reporting bank irregularities or suppression of the irregularities under the present administration.

The Treasury Secretary said it was his policy and that of the President that whenever banking irregularities are revealed by any Treasury Department officer, agent or investigator, they shall be considered promptly and referred to the proper authorities for immediate attention.

"I want to make it clear," Woodin said, "that the public can be assured that nothing will be withheld or suppressed under this administration."

Wheeler Demands Inquiry on Mellon

Senator Wants Justice to Probe Charges About Tax Collections.

(Associated Press.)

A Department of Justice investigation of charges that Andrew W. Mellon and other former and present officials of the Treasury failed to collect more than $600,000,000 in taxes and interest from foreign steamship companies and the Gulf Oil Co., a Mellon concern, was sought in a resolution yesterday by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana.

The resolution cited that civil suits had been filed in the local courts against Mellon and others by David A. Olson, former counsel for the Senate Stock Marketing Investigating Committee, charging the taxes had been "illegally withheld" from the Treasury and seeking their recovery for the Government.

on the work of the unified body. This budget is now being made up. The Federal Land Banks will be the existing agency least affected by the reorganization, he added.

Uniform Interest Planned.

Two immediate results of the consolidation will be the removal of conflicts between the Seed Loan Office and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and the setting up of a uniform rate of interest for Government loans to farmers. At present, Mr. Morgenthau pointed out, a farmer must agree to reduce his acreage 30 per cent before he can get money from the Seed Loan, but the Finance Corporation will lend without such an agreement. The new agencies will also make similar loans at similar rates of interest. It will be the policy of the administration to get the lowest interest possible and still sell the securities of the administration.

The reorganization will abolish seven out of eight jobs on the Farm Board, only the chairman being kept, and will abolish five out of six members of the Farm Loan Board, keeping only the Farm Loan Commissioner. Mr. Morgenthau was unable to state what other reductions in personnel would be made. The consolidation will affect about 10,000 employes, of whom about 5,000 are in Washington.

The refinancing plan emanating from the Department of Agriculture provides for handling farm mortgages through the Federal Land Banks and the regional credit facilities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Corporation funds would be used. Farm mortgage relief would be provided by the banks, while loans to pay taxes and farm debt service would come through the regional corporation.

Most Cases to Cover One Year.

Tax loans would not be made to cover more than one year's levy unless the State would agree not to sell the farm for taxes during the term of the loan. Regional credit facilities would not make loans for debt service unless the mortgage holder agreed to extend the mortgage for at least ten years.

The land banks would make loans for not more than 75 per cent of the value of the farm, raising the funds by selling trust certificates to the Finance Corporation. These trust certificates might also be exchanged for the mortgages.

TEXT OF ORDER

Text of the President's order reorganizing agricultural credit agencies:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Pursuant to the provisions of section 1, title 3, of the act entitled "an act to maintain the credit of the United States Government," approved March 20, 1933, I am transmitting herewith an executive order reorganizing the agricultural credit agencies of the United States.

This Executive order consolidates in one agency—the farm credit administration—the functions of all present Federal organizations which deal primarily with agricultural credit, namely, the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the functions of the Secretary of Agriculture with regard to loans in aid of agriculture, and those of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation pertaining to the management of regional agricultural credit corporations.

The functions of the Federal Farm Board with regard to further stabilization operations are abolished by the order.

More Uniform Program.

A better coordination of the agencies involved in our agricultural credit system will produce a more uniform program for agricultural credits and will result in substantial economies.

A saving of more than $2,000,000 is the immediate effect of this order. Further subetantial savings are anticipated.

Important as are the foregoing, of greater and controlling importance is the maintenance of the long-standing policy of the Federal Government to maintain and strengthen a sound and permanent system of cooperative agricultural credit, subject to Federal supervision and operated on the basis of providing the maximum of security to present and prospective investors in bonds and debentures resting on farm mortgages or other agricultural securities—all for the purpose of meeting the credit needs of agriculture at minimum cost.

DISTRICT BUDGET CUT ASKED IN FIGURES SENT TO HOUSE

items will bring the total carried in the bill to $32,999,700, he stated.

The conference report used as a basis for yesterday's budget cuts was never adopted by Congress. Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, blocked its approval on the last day of the session. He opposed the $7,600,000 lump sum provision carried, favoring instead the $6,500,000 recommendation of the House. His stand was considered unreasonable, but the Budget Bureau yesterday made an $800,000 deeper cut.

Continued Unchanged.

The conference agreement, prohibiting enforcement of the Public Utilities Commission's taxi meter order without approval of Congress, was continued unchanged, as was the provision prohibiting pay increases under civil service reallocations.

Entire items were stricken from the bill, including $173,000 for reclaiming the Anacostia River flats for park development, $25,000 for improvement of Anacostia Park and $15,000 for a 5,000,000-gallon pump at the Anacostia Pumping Station.

The local war veterans' service office, which supplies information to District veterans, was abolished by eliminating its $5,500 appropriation.

Public park appropriations were reduced from $718,500 to $333,000, and a $30,000 item for development of the Rock Creek and Potomac connecting parkway was thrown out. No money was appropriated for bathing pool maintenance.

Only one major street improvement development was included, providing for the paving of Thirty-first street from the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal to K, and South street, from Thirty-first street to Wisconsin avenue.

Others Are Eliminated.

Appropriations for extension of Constitution avenue were eliminated, as were funds for the widening of Thirteenth street from Massachusetts avenue to Logan Circle. Paving projects on Reservoir road, Michigan avenue, Fourteenth street, Conduit road and Porter street northwest, and Benning road northeast were dropped.

Although the estimates failed to provide for Calvert street bridge, $148,500 was proposed for completion of Benning Bridge over Anacostia River, as against $150,000 previously recommended. It was learned from an authoritative source that some provision must be made for repair of the old Calvert street structure, if a new span is not built.

Other Cuts Proposed.

Besides the cuts in actual school construction, the Budget Bureau struck out $67,000 to purchase additional land for the Phelps Vocational School, and $25,000 for the Syphax School.

Deep slashes were made all along the line in funds for operation of District government autos.

The $46,000 "working capital" sum for maintenance of prison industries at Occoquan was reduced to $35,000.

The proposed 15 per cent refund for prompt payment of water bills was left untouched.

A few of the budget reductions follow:

Militia, from $36,000 to $32,000; National Park and Planning Commission, from $35,000 to $31,000; National Zoological Park, from $200,000 to $180,000; miscellaneous, street and road improvements, from $250,000 to $25,000; playground maintenance, fom $35,000 to $30,000; library books and periodicals, from $54,500 to $40,000; registrar of wills, from $68,400 to $30,000; vehicles and traffic department equipment, from $63,200 to $45,000; recorder of deeds, from $90,000 to $80,000.

Fight Is Expected.

While the Commissioners were not familiar with the details of the reductions when they left the District Building late yesterday, it was expected that they will make a fight for more generous appropriations on Capitol Hill at congressional hearings.

The Commissioners have previously expressed their opposition to the accumulation of a large surplus to the District's credit in the Treasury, particularly at this time when municipal construction would provide employment.

It was pointed out also that the original District budget did not take into account further reductions in salaries as provided in the new economy act, neither did it anticipate additional revenue from the sale of beer.

Agricultural Credit Unit Will Be in Civil Service

All employes of the new Agricultural Credit Administration must come under Civil Service regulations, including employes of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Crop Loan Office of the Department of Agriculture, Henry Morgenthau, jr., head of the new agency, said yesterday.

Employes of the Farm Board and the Federal Land Banks, which will be merged in the administration, are now under Civil Service rules. But those in the agricultural credit branch of the Finance Corporation and the Crop Loan Office were appointed without taking competitive examinations.

Whether present employes without Civil Service status may be transferred to the new agency without taking an examination depends on the terms of the Presidential proclamation putting them under the Civil Service regulations. There have been numerous cases where employes were transferred en masse to a Civil Service status without examination.

President Tackles Problems of Coal

Confers With Leaders of Mine Union Men and Two Cabinet Officers.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday went to work on the coal problem. Leaders of the United Mine Workers of America joined the President and two members of his Cabinet in an hour's conference on what steps the Government best could take to help the industry.

After the conference, the following statement was given out at the White House:

"There was a general discussion of the coal industry and mining conditions throughout the country with a view to finding the best means for improving these conditions. Further conferences with the President will be held."

Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, who took part in the meeting, along with Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department, said the miners' representatives had presented a number of suggestions. "We are going to explore all of them," she said.

White House Pool Plans Are Drafted

Grant Shows Roosevelt Scheme for Putting It in West Terrace.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt arranged yesterday for the construction of the swimming pool at the White House which citizens have offered him through subscriptions.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of Public Buildings and Parks, showed the President a tentative draft of a plan for placing the pool in the west terrace.

"The President told us," Grant said, "that he wants everything to be as simple as possible."

The House yesterday adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution authorizing the Government to accept the fund contributed. Newspapers backed the campaign for contributions.

Dr. William Gerry Morgan, dean of the Georgetown Medical School, will introduce Dr. Dyer.

CRITICISM DELUGES FARM AID MEASURE

cent limitation on present advances. Some States already have exhausted their quotas.

"In all probability," he said, "an amendment will be attached to the reforestation bill tomorrow modifying or removing that limitation. The destitute relief bill will be considered by the committee.

"The farm mortgage refinance bill is still in embryo. Questions pertaining to form and to the rate of interest the bonds shall bear and some other questions of details are yet to be determined."

He indicated the belief, however, the President would be ready to transmit his farm mortgage proposal to Congress late this week.

Criticism of the Roosevelt farm relief bill piled up end on end yesterday before the Senate Agriculture Committee as the administration's measure bumped along toward the Senate floor.

Harry W. Farr, of Greeley, Colo., presenting the objections of the live stock industry, led off the list of witnesses. He opposed the measure as unsound and costly to producer and consumer.

Francis J. Clair, of Chicago, and J. E. McDonald, of Austin, the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, offered a substitute that in substance was the domestic allotment plan submitted at the last session of Congress.

John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union, appearing for the third time in as many days, reiterated his opposition to the price fixing guaranty of production costs, while Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, of Kansas City, a garment manufacturer, said she felt the measure would be "a hardship to the wage earners" by increasing food costs to them.

Fred J. Lingham, of Lockport, N. Y., representing the Millers National Federation, added his objections, declaring a belief that the plan would not work, while the proposed processing tax would result in a per capita cost of $11.75 to each American for his food.

W. F. Jensen, of Chicago, manager of the American Association of Creamery & Butter Manufacturers, announced his organization's neutrality, but proposed that processors should be represented in the groups in charge of distributing benefit payments.

2 IN BRUTALITY CASE BEGIN TERMS IN JAIL

Mostyn and Laflin Start Sentences After Order of Appellate Court.

The last episode of the "police brutality" cases was enacted in District Supreme Court yesterday when former Precinct Detective James Mostyn and William R. Laflin, a plainclothesman, were sent to jail for a year and fined $500.

The two were convicted last year of beating James Henry Harker, who was a prisoner in the old Sixth Precinct Station. Justice Proctor sentenced them then but they noted an appeal and were allowed their liberty pending its outcome.

The Court of Appeals upheld the convictions two weeks ago and yesterday the Appellate Court sent its mandate to District Supreme Court, which in turn ordered Mostyn and Laflin to appear for execution of sentence. Both were immediately taken to District Jail.

A third former policeman, Vivian H. Landrum, who was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $100, may receive more leniency than his fellow officers. Justice Proctor ordered that his case be referred to the probation officer for report. If this report is favorable Landrum may have his fine suspended.

The hue and cry attendant upon disclosures of police brutality by The Washington Post resulted in the indictment of eighteen policemen after a lengthy investigation by the Department of Justice. Only four were convicted, and one case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

The fourth officer was Detective Sergeant Robert J. Barrett. His conviction was set aside by the Court of Appeals at the same time it affirmed the others. No decision has yet been made as to whether Barrett will be tried again.

Roosevelt Names Ives For Consul General

Ernest L. Ives, First Secretary of the Legation at Pretoria, Union of South Africa, yesterday was nominated by President Roosevelt to be a consul general. Mr. Ives, who was born in Norfolk, Va., has been a member of the diplomatic service since 1909.

Others whose names were sent to the Senate for confirmation yesterday were: Secretaries in the foreign service, Robert G. McGregor, jr., of New York; Peter A. H Flood, of New Hampshire; Robert R. Graves, of Vermont, and Robert L. Smyth, of California. Harold B. Quarton, of Iowa, was nominated as consul general.

SCOTTSBORO BATTLE BEGUN BY DEFENSE

Lawyers Seek to Show 7 Were Deprived of Constitutional Rights.

Decatur, Ala., March 27 (A.P.).—A tedious legal battle to set aside the indictment against seven Negroes charged with attacking two white girls was launched in Morgan Circuit Court today as the defense sought to establish its contention that the defendants had been deprived of their rights through exclusion of Negroes from the grand jury that indicted them.

The action, forerunner of the second trial of the men, who once were sentenced to death at Scottsboro, Ala., and who were granted a rehearing by the United States Supreme Court, began after several hours' delay in transferring the defendants from the Jefferson County Jail in Birmingham to Decatur.

An escort of National Guardsmen surrounded the defendants as they were brought into the courtroom, but there was no disorder.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, of New York, chief of defense counsel, and Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, jr., directing the prosecution, clashed frequently as the former sought to prove through witnesses that Negroes were "habitually excluded" from juries in Jackson County.

U.S. TO BE EXPECTED TO JOIN ARMS CURB

Withdrawal Proclamation of Japan, Hitting Report, Is Sent to Geneva.

Geneva, March 27 (U.P.).—The United States will be expected to participate in a world arms embargo against Japan, to be declared as a result of her withdrawal from the League of Nations, it was indicated here tonight.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, announced he had received a dispatch from Tokyo giving notice of Japan's withdrawal.

The smaller powers very likely will demand immediate economic sanctions, or penalties, delegates believed, together with the withdrawal of ambassadors and ministers in Japan.

Tokyo, March 27 (A.P.).—Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations was announced to the Japanese today in a proclamation by Emperor Hirohito in which it was asserted that the nation would continue cooperation in league efforts to assure peace.

"His majesty has been pleased to command his government to secede from the League of Nations," the proclamation said.

The decision was communicated to the league in a telegram which asserted that the league assembly's report on Manchuria, which condemned Japan's course, cut away "the ground for stabilization of the Far Eastern question" because it attempted "to challenge the position taken by Japan in recognizing Manchukuo."

Premier Saito said in a statement that despite her resignation Japan would "continue to participate in such international enterprises as will be inaugurated for the purposes of furthering the welfare of mankind. This country does not propose to shut itself up in the Far East, but will endeavor to strengthen its ties of friendship with other powers."

He expressed hope that Japan would bring permanent peace to the Orient "by opening the way for collaboration among Japan, Manchukuo and China."

ONE DIES, TWO SHOT IN MINE UNION WAR

Gun Battle in Front of Illinois Undertaker's Has Fatal Result.

West Frankfort, Ill., March 27 (A.P.).—An unsuccessful attempt today by the Progressive Miners Union, which seeks to oust the United Mine Workers of America from Illinois, to call a strike of Franklin County mines resulted in the death of one miner and the wounding of two others.

John Ward, 45, of West Frankfort, a Progressive miner, was killed and Elmer Cooper, 29, and Clarence Donaldson, 27, both United Mine Workers of Eldorado, were seriously wounded in a gun fight in front of the Stone undertaking parlors here this morning.

Officers Describe Fight.

Sheriff's deputies said the gun fight resulted when Ward was ejected from a telegraph office here by Ray Edmundson, president of Subdistrict 9, United Mine Workers, and John Moulin, member of the State scale committee of the U. M. W. of A., following an altercation.

Ward, officers said, started down the street from the telegraph office when he met Cooper and Donaldson, and, thinking they intended to renew the trouble, Ward drew a revolver and began firing at them.

The two men, officers said, unaware of the telegraph office incident, drew their weapons and returned the fire. Ward fell to the ground fatally wounded. Cooper was shot in the side and Donaldson in the arm. The battle raged around a large tree and shots peppered buildings nearby, one of them going through the undertaking parlor window.

Strike Called Failure.

Cooper and Donaldson, officers said, had been stationed at Thompsonville, northeast of here, to aid deputies in identifying Progressive miners that might have attempted to enter Franklin County from Saline County.

The six mines in the county which were scheduled to work today, hoisted coal and operators termed the Progressive strike a "failure." Several mines, however, reported reduced crews, but operators and officials of the United Mine Workers predicted all mines would be operating normally tomorrow.

ACQUITTAL IS SEEN FOR BRITISH OFFICER

Court-Martial Told He Did Not Plan Sale of Secrets in Germany.

London, March 27 (A.P.).—The court-martial trying Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart on charges that he sold his country's military secrets was informed by the judge advocate today that the young officer had no treacherous intent when he left England for Germany last summer.

The prosecution contends that the sale of secrets took place in Berlin. Lieut. Baillie-Stewart has testified that the money he received from the German capital came to him from an attractive young German woman who paid him for making love to her.

Before sunset tomorrow trial of the case should be completed and the lieutenant's fate will be in the hands of the court-martial. It may be several days, perhaps weeks, before the verdict is known.

Belief was expressed tonight that the charge by the judge advocate would be largely in favor of acquittal in view of the indication at today's session that he would instruct the court there was no evidence showing treacherous intent when Baillie-Stewart went to Berlin.

3 NATIONS OPEN NEGOTIATIONS ON DEBTS, ARMS AND COMMERCE

of his arms reduction thesis dramatically presented to the blase delegates of the disarmament conference recently. The Italian plan predicates acceptance of disarmament on a general easing of the tension in Europe caused by political instability.

Reference to Germany.

Mussolini has ranged with him the forces of revision: Germany, and to a qualified degree, Great Britain. France is the argument for the status quo. But it was recently conveyed to the President that some measure of armament should be attributed to Germany, unless the Hitler government jettisons the Versailles Treaty in its entirety. If this happens, the task of the disarmament delegates, including the American, will have considerably increased and an ultimate agreement on any plan, MacDonald's, Hoover's or any other will be more remote.

Undersecretary of State William Phillips received the Italian Ambassador.

The conversation between President Roosevelt and Claudel was of a more informal nature than either the Italian or the British meetings. Claudel was presenting Deputy Stern, who was able to give the President a more encouraging picture of the chances of French payment of their deferred debt.

With the arrival here of Ambassador de la Boulaye within the next fortnight, the actual payment of the $20,000,000 installment will probably be met. The President, it is understood, reiterated the attitude that he has always pursued in the debt problem: Payment of the December 15 installment as the necessary prerequisite of any further discussions looking toward revision.

Flanked by Experts.

The interconnection of the war debts and the general economic needs of the world were again stressed by Secretary Hull in the discussions with Lindsay yesterday. The ambassador was accompanied by Mr. Bewley and Secretary Hull was flanked by the economist of the department, Dr. Feis, and Assistant Secretary Moley.

The Anglo-American conversations are still in the plastic stage of preparation. The program that Secretary Hull has mapped out for himself is considerably beyond the expectations of the British instructions that Sir Ronald brought back from London. Great Britain was anxious to secure an agreement on the debts, the sooner the better, and the visit of the British Ambassador to London was for the purpose of securing the concessions that the foreign office would exchange.

Secretary Hull has, however, taken the debts out of their isolated sphere and made them part of the general economic picture, which will have to be altered and trimmed in all directions rather than along the one track of debts. Lindsay had already held one conference with the Secretary of State, but the very general nature of their first meeting was reduced to more specific points of argument yesterday in the presence of the technical advisers of both countries.

New Economic Policy.

The meetings of the various diplomats yesterday with the three directors of American foreign policy developed along different lines the new economic policy of the present administration.

The British and French Ambassadors were principally concerned with agreements on the economic aspects of the great international problem, while suave Ambassador Rosso, Italy's greatest disarmament expert, was chiefly interested in securing American reaction to the four power plan of Mussolini for solving the problem of world armament.

The subjects of debts, disarmament and economic agreements are all closely interrelated in the new American view of the political troubles of the world. Secretary Hull is passionately devoted to the cause of economic agreements to prevent paralyzing international trade and he sees the complexity of the entire problem and its distribution of consequences all along the lines of international action.

Issue Joint Statement.

Both the Secretary of State and the ambassador issued a joint statement at the conclusion of their meeting yesterday which revealed in the broadest outlines the nature of their discussions. At this stage of the negotiations, however, the representatives of the two countries have not yet gotten down to cases. Their statement is as follows:

"We have continued our preliminary and tentative discussions of the world economic situation, confining our discussions to those topics contained in the agenda recently prepared by the preliminary committee in Geneva.

"We feel gratified with the value of these talks in clarifying the views of the officials of the two countries. We expect to continue these discussions."

The meetings between the Secretary and the British Ambassador will be repeated until a definite stage has been reached.

ferences in House and Senate measures will be ironed out.

Possibility of some delay in final enactment offered no great concern to local wets, who want a bill that will not be likely to endanger the chances of eventual repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Among the many changes being written in the bill, is one affecting the cost of "on sale" and "off sale" licenses. The House measure fixes the former at $100, and the "off sale" fee at $50. Senator Tydings indicated he believes this is too great a difference. Possibility was seen that a "happy medium" might be struck. Senator King yesterday wrote Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the District Commissioners, that he will ask the board to report on the measure as finally drafted.

The Commissioners' recommendations already are before the Tydings subcommittee in the form of a rewritten version of the House bill, prepared by Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon West, in conference with Rufus Lusk, of the Crusaders.

Senator King, who favors broader powers for the Commissioners, said the proposed submission is in line with this policy.

Senator Tydings said he will call his subcommittee together today or tomorrow.

STATE RESTS TODAY IN ARLINGTON TRIAL

Two Washington Bankers to Tell of E. Wade Ball's Personal Accounts.

With the introduction of testimony of two Washington bankers, the prosecution will rest today in the case of E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County, Va., treasurer charged with failure to turn over county funds totaling $515,959.92. The two witnesses will be officials of the Potomac Savings Bank and the Riggs National Bank, and will testify on the defendant's personal accounts, according to the Commonwealth.

Over strong objection of defense counsel the Commonwealth was permitted to put into the record the testimony of R. L. McNeil, auditor of the State Department of Taxation, which included the income tax returns of the defendant for 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931. The returns were confined to the identification of copies by Mr. McNeil, the originals of which he retained.

Attempts of prosecution to introduce evidence from Robert B. Jordon as to bank balances taken from his work sheets were opposed by the defense. Much time was consumed in argument with the jury absent. The objection was overruled.

It was brought out by Mr. Jordon that in June, 1930, personal loans totaling $30,000 were made by the defendant, $10,000 from the Potomac Savings Bank and $20,000 from the Riggs National Bank. Both loans were later placed in the treasurer's account in banks where he kept an account. They were both paid by treasurer's checks.

Jesse Cheney, clerk in the treasurer's office, identified four papers claimed to be in part in the handwriting of the defendant. The papers contained a mass of figures which were introduced into the record, but nothing was said as to what they represented.

Col. Charles T. Jesse, county treasurer, testified he was appointed February 26 and qualified on February 29. He stated he received from the defendant on March 8 certified checks amounting to $4,654.93. Other than four other checks amounting to $287.24 he said that that was all the funds he received from Ball. Motion to strike out his evidence by defense counsel was denied by the court.

It is expected the case will reach the jury Friday.

Roosevelt Summer Home Site Pushed

Marylanders See Berkeley Springs Location Urged as "White House."

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., March 27. A group of Marylanders, named by the Real Estate Board of Baltimore to assist in having a summer White House for the President located here, spent the week-end as guests of Henry P. Bridges, at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, and visited facilities which they believe would be considerations in recommending this place.

In the group were Joshua G. Harvey, Thomas R. Bond, Randolph N. Dame, C. Phillip Pitt, A. J. Deitrich, W. H. Emory, jr., all of Baltimore; Richard Potts, Frederick, Md.; James Hooper, Owings Mills and Henry P. Bridges, Hancock, Md.

The movement to have the President establish a headquarters here is embodied in a resolution passed by the West Virginia Legislature inviting him and calling attention to the fact that waters here, State controlled, have medicinal qualities of the same character that have attracted him to Georgia for treatment. Berkeley Springs is approximately 100 miles by motor from the Capital.

RESERVE'S POSITION GREATLY IMPROVED

their borrowings at the Reserve banks. March figures for member banks are incomplete."

From this discussion of the member bank operations in the principal financial centers, the bulletin turned to the central operations in the Reserve cities.

"At the Federal Reserve banks, the banking crisis manifested itself between February 1 and March 4 in domestic demand for $1,833,000,000 of currency, including about $300,000,000 of gold and gold certificates, and in a foreign demand for about $300,000,000 of gold. As a consequence, the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve banks declined from 65.6 per cent to 45 per cent. This reflected a loss of $655,000,000 in reserves and an increase of $1,436,000,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation, offset in part by a decrease of $486,000,000 in deposit liabilities."

Historic Expansion.

It was this phase of the Federal Reserve operations which marked the most rapid expansion of money and credit facilities in Federal Reserve history. Never before in its eighteen years' operation had the system been called upon to vindicate itself under conditions of equal stress.

The rapid return of gold to the banks after the holiday is testimony to the efficiency with which the Reserve Banks functioned.

"Between March 4 and March 22," the bulletin continues, "there was a return flow to the Reserve Banks of $558,000,000 of gold and gold certificates and of $319,000,000 of other currency, and the reserve ratio advanced to 55.5 per cent. Discounts for member banks, which had increased to $1,432,000,000 by March 4, declined to $671,000,000 on March 22."

Trade Revival Deferred.

The monthly review of trade and commerce, which accompanies the Federal Reserve Board's financial summary, says that business operations have not yet taken a definite upward course since the banking resumption.

Production and employment in the basic industries continue to drag along at levels only fractionally above the lows of last summer.

Building contracts for the first quarter of 1933 will show a sharp decline from the last quarter of the previous year.

ALEXANDRIANS HEAR DR. WILLIAM WHITE

Reorganization Meeting Is Held by Tuberculosis Association.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Dr. William Charles White, of Washington, chairman of the committee on medical research of the National Tuberculosis Association, was principal speaker at a reorganization meeting of the Alexandria Tuberculosis Association, held last night in the Westminster Building.

Miss Leslie C. Foster, executive secretary of the State organization, also gave a short talk on the State work, particularly in rural districts, stating that urban districts are prepared to handle the situation, with doctors and nurses available, but the bulk of the work in the rural sections falls upon the State association.

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, also gave a short talk.

Mrs. Wallace Lawrence, who has been acting chairman the past winter, presided and introduced the speakers. Robert M. Reese acted as secretary.

Officers Are Named.

Mrs. Reese appointed a nominating committee composed of Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, Dr. Julian T. Bowman and Miss Ellen McFarland, to present names for officers of a permanent organization, and those presented and elected were:

Dr. H. A. Latane, president; Gardner L. Boothe, first vice president; the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, second vice president; Mrs. Francis H. Fanno, third vice president; Robert M. Reese, treasurer, and Mrs. Raymond Blumenfeld, secretary. These officers, with the addition of Mrs. Lawrence and the city health officer, Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, will form the board of directors, with one representative appointed by the following organizations:

The Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Medical Society, Elks, Parent-Teachers Council, Masons, Ministerial Association, Jewish Synagogue and the Catholic Church.

Those at Session.

The meeting was attended by the following: Miss Fleeman, of Richmond, field worker of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association; Dr. White, Mrs. William C. Goodwyn, of Washington; Dr. R. J. Anderson, of the Sterling Laboratories in Yale University, New Haven, Conn; Dr. Schafer, Mrs. Robert A. Bowman, city bacteriologist; Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, city health nurse; Mrs. Sara Painter, school nurse; Mrs. Hazel T. Allyn, Metropolitan nurse; Mrs. T. C. Howard, city welfare committee; Mrs. William M. Reardon and Miss Lucy Reardon, Methodist Episcopal Church South; Mrs. Taylor Burke and Mrs. Arthur M. King, of the former local association; Miss Laura Hulfish, Miss Lucy Anderson and Mrs. George Rhine, of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Also Mrs. Hattie Mason and Mrs. Pauline Vegina, of the Baptist Temple; Miss Ellen McFarland and Miss Virginia Burke, of St. Mary's Catholic Church; Dr. Julian T. Bowman and Raymond Helimuth, of the Rotary Club; R. Wendall Eaves, of the Kiwanis Club; Mrs. C. M. Cowling and Mrs. R. Wendall Eaves, of the Jefferson School Parent-Teachers Association; Miss Catherine Johnson and Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, of the Business and Professional Women's Club; Robert M. Reese, Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons; Robert E. Knight, jr., of the George Mason High School; Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey and Mrs. Irene Richardson, of American Legion Auxiliary.

Dr. Latane, Armistead L. Boothe and Robert M. Reese were appointed a committee to present a tentative constitution and by-laws for consideration at the next meeting.

Alexandria Rotarians Meet Today.

Commander H. B. Soule, newly elected president of the board of governors of the Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery, will speak at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at 12:30 today in the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria; President Francis H. Fannon will preside and the special committee in charge of the program includes: Blair McLeod, John W. Tulloch, H. H. Martin, H. E. Cross, and Julian Chauncey.

Trial Postpones Meeting.

The police hearing on renaming of all streets in Arlington County, proposed in a report recently submitted to the county board by a special street renaming committee, has been indefinitely postponed. The meeting scheduled for last night was postponed because the courtroom is occupied by the jury hearing the Wade Ball case.

THE other evening Forest Service members and friends enjoyed the semiannual Forest Service party at the Washington Club. The reception room, ballroom and card room—were filled with members and friends of this bureau of the Department of Agriculture.

The Forester, Maj. R. Y. Stuart, and Mrs. Stuart received, assisted by assistant foresters and their wives.

The committee in charge were C. M. Ballard, chairman; Mrs. Zula Pence, Mrs. Josephine Thompson, Mrs. Theresa Hoerner, Mr. Harry Irion and Mr. Joe A. Fitzwater. Mrs. D. Priscilla Edgerton and Mrs. Herbert A. Smith presided in the card room. Youthful members of the Forest Service personnel were much in evidence, and this element extended to the debutante daughters and young sons of members.

From 9 o'clock until after midnight, the spacious rooms rang with music and laughter, and the rhythm of dancing feet, dispelling the echoes of depression with good cheer that costs little and loyalty that helps a lot. The music was furnished by an excellent orchestra and delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

These Forest Service parties are an institution. They have been held once or twice a year for a number of years, not always but often in the charming surroundings of the Washington Club. Those who have not attended previously were delighted with this first experience. Those who are regular attendants at Forest Service functions pronounced it one of the most enjoyable.

TOO much can not be said of the good management and hospitality of the committee, particularly of the leadership of C. M. Ballard, whose philosophy of good cheer and good fellowship is well known in department circles.

Those who attended included:

Maj. and Mrs. R. Y. Stuart, Miss Janet Crichton Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Carter, Leon F. Kneipp, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Kircher, Miss Mitchell, Miss Jackson, Mrs. M. Baker, Dr. Dunmire, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ballard, Mrs. Gayle Ballard Baptista, Representative and Mrs. J. W. Boehne, jr., Miss Mary Louise Ballard, Roy Wynkoop, George A. Barker, Miss Blanche Crawford, Mrs. L. O. Burkholder, J. L. Carr, Mrs. G. M. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Collingwood, Dr. Stewart, Mrs. Fred E. Hornaday, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Chapline, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connaughton, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Coville, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Campbell, Mrs. Etta Dempsey, Milburn Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dort, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Duthie, Mrs. Daisy Edgerton, Mr. and Mrs. Robie Evans, Mrs. Peggy Ferguson, Mr. Joseph W. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Mrs. Wilcox, employed at the Interstate Commerce Commission, is the Diary's weekly prize award winner today. The Hecht Co. will have the honor of redeeming Mrs. Wilcox's certificate.

Until further notice the Federal Diary will continue awarding these $5 merchandise prizes.

You're invited to try your hand.

Welcome to twelve more entrants into the Federal Diary's jigsaw puzzle tournament Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Kennedy-Warren. They are Margaret A. Ellis, Commerce; Greta Ragatz, Veterans' Administration; Ruby L. Frazier, Commerce; Mrs. Laura Moore, Treasury, and Grace L. Tyson, Federal Farm Loan Board; Mrs. Mary Booth, Prohibition; Charlie Rollins, Allen Property; Mrs. Mary Randall, Prohibition; Miss Marcia Parker, Industrial Alcohol; Mrs. Gladys Kastanek, Customs, and Miss Louise LaCombe, Federal Farm Board.

Swami Fedd, with the help of the Federal Diary's assistant statistician last night was trying to total the number of pieces of jigsaw puzzle to be put together in case only 500 compete for the prizes.

"Let's see," said Mr. Fedd, "suppose there are only 300 pieces to be arranged in each puzzle. And suppose there are only 500 in the contest, each at his own table, that would make a total of 150,000 pieces—unless, of course, one or two pieces get lost."

"Yes," offered the assistant, "but suppose there are more than 500 in the contest. There'll be folks working puzzles all over the place, won't there?"

The assistant's power of deduction was nothing short of marvelous.

Some of the prizes will come from Frank R. Jelleff, Inc., Lott, Myers Shop and others.

It's still not too late to enter your name. There will be no admission tickets this time. Just come.

SIROVICH ADVOCATES DEMANDS ON BERLIN

Would Have U. S. Abrogate Treaties Unless Persecution Ceases.

(Associated Press.)

The world-wide clamor over persecution, real or alleged, of Jews under the new German regime of Adolph Hitler, yesterday invaded the precincts of the Capitol with a resolution by Representative Sirovich (Democrat), New York, to abrogate all treaties between the United States and Germany unless the abuses charged come to an end.

Sirovich put forward his resolution in the midst of a speech recalling the historic persecutions of the Jewish race from Biblical times down. The resolution called upon the German government "to desist from this inhuman attitude."

But as Sirovich spoke of German conditions he was interrupted by Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, who said there was "unreasonable, foolish persecution of Jews right here in the Nation's Capital."

Hull's Course Upheld.

He argued that some apartment houses would not rent to Jews and that in some sections of Washington Jews could not buy residences. The Texan declared:

"We ought to get that out of the way first before looking abroad. We ought to get this ridiculous persecution right here in the Nation's Capital out of the way before we go into the foreign question.

"I am in sympathy, however, with the purport of the resolution of the gentleman from New York, but they should be handled through the regular diplomatic channels."

Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, broke in to say he felt the situation was being "handled excellently" by Secreary of State Hull, to which Sirovich replied that he believed the House was the "place to voice this sentiment."

Demands of Sirovich.

Sirovich was applauded by his colleagues at the termination of his speech.

His resolution asked assurances from the German government:

"That it will punish those guilty of these transgressions against human and economic rights, make proper restitution to those whose property and life have been destroyed, and make adequate safeguards and protection against future occurence."

He added: "And unless such action is consummated within a reasonable time, and these outrageous persecutions against racial and religious minorities immediately cease then the United States in the name of humanity shall abrogate all treaties now existing between the United Sates of America and the Republic of Germany."

Advocates of the northern approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge will hold a mass meeting tonight in the Moose Hall in Clarendon. The purpose of the meeting is to complete plans for presentation of claims to H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Joseph D. McDonnell, leader in the movement, says he has enlisted the aid of Hugh Reid, delegate to the General Assembly of Virginia, who said that while he would be unable to attend the meeting he would gladly accompany a committee to confer with Mr. Shirley at Richmond.

In addition to naming a committee to confer with the Highway Commissioner it is planned to adopt definite recommendations to have the northern approach constructed as the extension of Lee Boulevard to the bridge and the proposed southern route dropped.

JEWISH RETALIATION IS PLANNED BY NAZIS

Boycott Is One of Proposals Designed to Curb Alleged Cruelty Propaganda.

Berlin, March 27 (U.P.).—A policy of stern retaliatory measures against Jews believed guilty of spreading "atrocity propaganda" abroad was enunciated by leaders of the Nazi party today.

It was understood that the Fascist-controlled government of Chancellor Adolf Hitler was prepared to countenance the retaliation in the exact ratio which foreign governments countenance the so-called atrocity propaganda.

The retaliation is to take the form, for one thing, of a boycott of Jewish shops and goods, sharp reduction in the number of Jewish students permitted to attend universities, and curtailing of licenses for practicing to Jewish physicians and lawyers.

Campaign Is Planned.

The reductions will be in proportion, it was said, to the percentage of Jews in the German population, which is below 1 per cent. A campaign to encourage mass meetings and newspaper articles will be started to keep the anti-Semitism question alive.

The party intends to proceed with this policy without delay. A Munich report said special campaign committees will be organized there tomorrow to begin a wave of propaganda "to enlighten the nation with the facts of the role of Jews in Germany."

Urged As Imperative.

The retaliation campaign is a direct result of week-end conversations at Berchtesbaden, in the Bavarian Alps, between Hitler and Dr. Paul Goebbels, minister of propaganda, in which the latter urged that it was imperative to counteract the propaganda abroad.

They decided that the government had done all that was officially possible, and hence it would be best for the Nazi party to assume direction of the campaign.

Party leaders emphasized that the campaign will remain strictly within "legal bounds," but that they meant to retaliate against instigators of the atrocity tales abroad, who were declared to be chiefly Jews who have fled from Germany.

County Treasurer Bill Allowed by Consent

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 27.—With the introduction of new legislation permissible only by unanimous consent, the regular time limit having expired last Friday, Senator Hilton, Montgomery County, obtained that authority tonight to present a measure fixing the bond required of the county treasurer at $50,000.

JEWISH "INJUSTICE" HIT AT SESSION HERE

Hitler government persists in the persecution of the Jew," he asserted. "I would not hesitate to vote for a resolution favoring the severment of diplomatic relations of this great republic with that state."

Plea for Justice.

Senator King urged that Germany moderate its course and treat the Jews, who, he said had done so much to further the cause of humanity, with justice.

Isadore Hershfield, chairman of the meeting, stated at its opening that the purpose of protest was not to raise a controversy over the form of government in Germany, but to hold that government responsible for the "unjust persecution" of the Jews.

He charged that the denials of anti-Semitic "atrocities" did not ring true and that "victims of persecution are acquainted with the technique of government denial."

"Associated Press dispatches diminish our hope that German promises to protect Jews will be upheld," he stated. He named well-known correspondents, who, he claimed, had given true accounts of barbaric actions on the part of Nazis.

Cites Other Instances.

Bishop James E. Freeman declared that "when protest is voiced in this country, it must be heard." He cited other instances in which the humanitarian spirit of Americans had aided the oppressed in obtaining justice.

"I maintain that we have the right, almost the solemn right, to protest," the bishop asserted. He stated: "It is the duty of every defender of human rights and liberty to register vigorous protests against such atrocities as are reported."

Retired from active work, Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Church, also spoke. "I speak as one who is retired," he said, "but who can retire or be retired when a human cause is in need?"

Reversal of New Regard.

The Jews have made contributions to the religious life as well as to the science and culture of Germany, he stated. "The anti-Semitic movement which we protest is a reversal of the new regard for human rights, and we must protest," he asserted.

Rabbi Solomon Metz, prominent Jewish clergyman, described the patriotism of the Jews in Germany during the World War.

He declared that about 100,000 of a total Jewish population of 500,000 had served with the German forces during the war.

The Nazi troops sing anti-Semitic songs while marching through German cities, he charged. "Perish Judea," he claimed, was the slogan of the Nazi party.

Reign of Terror.

The resolution adopted by the meeting stated that the protest was a condemnation of the reign of terror against Jews in Germany as reported by reliable sources and which "seems to confirm and carry into effect the campaign threats of the group now in power."

It read that according to cabled reports from Germany even citizens of the United States sojourning there on lawful business, or temporarily residing there, were subjected to violence and humiliation. These outrages, the resolution stated, have failed to receive prompt and energetic prosecution from the constituted authorities.

The resolution urged the State Department to make representations to government authorities in Germany. A copy of the resolution will be submitted to President Roosevelt, the Secretary of State, and the Ambassador of Germany to this country.

Her long gloves were buff colored and she carried pink roses and blue delphinium. Capt. Lester Dexzez, U. S. M. C., acted as best man.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, at which Mrs. Emory, who was dressed in gray lace, received with the bride. LIGHT PENALTY DOUBLES.

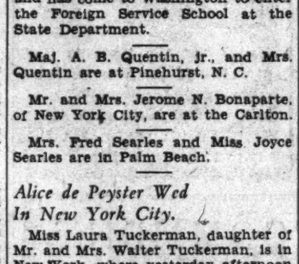
MR. MICHAEL T. GOTTLIEB, a member of Crockford's team-of-four and coholder, with Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, of the National Masters' Pair title, is known everywhere as the player of an extremely brilliant game. His one weakness is that he has a tendency to double his opponents for penalties with very little and sometimes no provocation whatever, as, for instance, on the hand below:

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1♠	2♡	Pass
Pass	2♠	3♡	Dbl.(1)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This Double is certainly quite optimistic, but Mr. Gottlieb was playing with his favorite partner and he felt that they could probably get nowhere and that South had overbid.

The hand, as will be noted, was a laydown for three-odd, which South made.

It was in one of the early rounds of the team-of-four match at the Eastern tournament that the hand was played. After the match was over, Mr. Oswald Jacoby, who had held the South hand against the other part of the opposing team, strolled over to check results.

"We lost one board through a bad Double," Mr. Gottlieb explained.

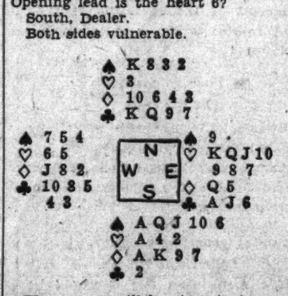
"Oh, no, you didn't," Mr. Jacoby returned. "They doubled me at two, and I made three. The only way we could have lost that board was if the South player here had redoubled."

It will be noted that if East guesses every card correctly, he can make four spades, but then why should one worry about that when he can win a match by doubling an opponent at a less-than-game contract and permit him to make it as well?

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The contract on this hand is six spades, played by South. What is the best line of play for the Declarer to make his contract, assuming that the Opening lead is the heart 6?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The answer will be given in tomorrow's article.

Luckies Please!

Lake Louise, Canada

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please"

Luckies are distinctive in character ...unique in mildness

The wide world over, people want a cigarette that has character . . . and mildness . . . That's why they choose Luckies.

The "Cream of the Crop"—in those four words, you have the reason for Luckies' character—a character that sets them apart from all other cigarettes. The choicest tobaccos are aged and mellowed for nearly three years . . . and then "Toasted" for true mildness. For these two reasons—Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

JAPAN AND TREATIES.

Japan has given notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations. It bases its notice upon the assertion that the members of the league are unable or unwilling to grasp the facts involved in the Sino-Japanese controversy, and that the action taken by the league in condemning Japanese military activity does not contribute to the cause of peace, which is stated to be Japan's primary objective. Japan adds that it will participate in disarmament and economic conferences.

By this act Japan relinquishes its seat in the council of the league, of which it was a permanent member. By reason of this council place Japan exerted equal authority with the great powers of Europe in international questions dealt with by the league.

China remains a member of the league, and is entitled to the benefits conferred by the covenant upon members which comply with decisions made by the league in regard to disputes. An advisory committee of the league charged with consideration of the Manchurian question is now working out a plan for the practical application of the principle of nonrecognition as relating to the counterfeit state of Manchukuo. It is expected that the committee will recommend that all members of the league unite in placing an embargo upon war material for Japan or Manchukuo, and refuse to grant credits to either. The United States has concurred in the conclusions of the Lytton report condemning Japan, and doubtless would co-operate with other nations if they should agree to apply an embargo on arms.

In some circumstances Japan's relations with the League of Nations would be comparatively unimportant. If that government had observed treaties faithfully it could have withdrawn from the league without reproach. But it withdraws in pursuance of a determined plan to consummate its conquest of a neighbor's territory, in violation of treaties and in disregard of other nations' rights. It is setting up a regime in which the rights and interests of other nations are snuffed out. At the same time, it expects to be received as an honored equal in world conferences, exactly as if its pledge were valid and all its undertakings to be discharged in good faith.

It is impossible for the nations to place Japan in a special class where it will enjoy the privilege of breaking treaties and waging aggressive war and yet enter into new treaties as if nothing had happened. Good faith and bad faith can not work together. Japan is working diligently to establish its reputation for bad faith. Every stroke it makes in that direction is a warning to all nations to beware of entering into any engagement whatever with Japan—commercial, financial, political, or otherwise.

The world can do business without Japan, but Japan can not do business without the world. It is an industrial nation, dependent upon foreign commerce. Its exports to China have dwindled to a mere trickle. The government of India has taken care to exclude Japanese cotton goods, which formerly were sold to China. As the nations feel the injury of Japan's attempt to monopolize Manchuria there will be commercial reprisals and probably extensive popular boycotts.

If Japan should go to the extent of increasing its navy under the pretext that it is building a navy for an "independent" state, a controversy with Great Britain, the United States, France and Italy will arise. They are parties to treaties with Japan which affect their naval strength, and therefore their safety and sense of security. Japan's violation of treaties now creates the presumption that further violations are to be expected.

FARM CREDIT COORDINATED.

President Roosevelt could not have selected a better field in which to start his consolidation program than the farm credit agencies. For many years Congress has been setting up new establishments to aid the farmer in a financial way. Several agencies extend credit directly to the farmer; others lend money to cooperative agricultural associations, and one, the Farm Board, has used taxpayers' money to buy and sell commodities in an effort to stabilize prices. All these agencies have functioned independently, each serving the farmer in its own way at a great expense to the Government.

The President's executive order sweeps away this hodgepodge arrangement and sets up in its place a single agency to be known as the Farm Credit Administration under direct control of a governor. When this order becomes effective in 60 days no money can be lent to the farmer without the approval of the governor or agents responsible to him. Duplication of service will be ended, conflicting policies in the Government's dealings with the farmer will be ironed out, and a substantial saving will be made. The governor is directed to impound and return to the Treasury $2,000,000 of the unexpended balances of appropriations for the coming year.

It remains for Governor Morgenthau of the Farm Credit Administration to complete the details of the new organization. He will take over the staffs as well as the functions of the Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, those sections of the Departments of the Treasury and Agriculture which function as lending agencies for farmers, the agricultural credit corporations of the R. F. C., as well as the Crop Production Loan Office and the Seed Loan Office. It is assumed that the personnel of these organizations will be used in setting up the new central agency, but Mr. Morgenthau will have authority to dismiss, furlough or transfer employes whose services are not required under the new set-up.

One excellent feature of this grouping is that it will allow the public to determine how much money is being spent for relief of farmers in this way. If the veterans' dole had continued to be paid out by several agencies, as it was at the beginning of the Hoover administration, it would have been more difficult to center public attention on that extravagance. Coordination of all farm credits under one head will enable the taxpaying public properly to appraise the value of this service. The tendency should be, therefore, to restrict expenditures and to keep abuses at a minimum. Judging from the projects that are being discussed on Capitol Hill to finance the farmer, a lively public opinion on the subject will be of great benefit in keeping farm credit within proper bounds.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE.

It is not unnatural that times of stress call out floods of pointless criticism of the Federal Reserve system. In every emergency the tinkerers and the fixers, aided and abetted by the college professors, run to the rescue of America. But the end is always the same. Their scrips are rejected by calm, thoughtful men; their managed currencies are sold for waste paper; their fatuous dreams of sound bimetalism are exploded by the sudden occurrence of the inevitable. Given a few weeks, the Federal Reserve system pulls through the storm with not even a broken oar.

The March summary published yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board recites the amazing details of the operations which carried the country safely through the banking crisis. It is another historical reminder of what the Nation owes to this system, and a warning to all statesmen and their understudies to move with utmost caution in projecting experimental changes in the name of sound banking reform.

The greater the burden placed upon the Reserve system by the recurring crises of the last four years, the more magnificently it has performed, the more completely has the test vindicated the underlying principles of reserve banking. The story of the February-March operations conjures up shocking pictures of the disaster and misery which might have befallen the United States had this system proved unequal to its task. To Governor Eugene Meyer and his colleagues on the Board, and to the legions of able bankers throughout the country who have helped build up the system during the last eighteen years to its present impregnable position, the American people are genuinely indebted for services rendered. Only high competence and sturdy devotion to sound fundamentals in the midst of hysteria could have served the Nation in this fashion last month.

Between February 1 and March 4, the twelve Federal Reserve banks experienced a demand for $1,833,000,000 in currency, including about $300,000,000 in gold and gold certificates, plus $300,000,000 in gold for export. These figures reflect the largest banking operations in such a space of time in all financial history. Not even during the war, when the United States was financing about half the world, were the flexible advantages of the Reserve system demonstrated more effectively. The failure of this operation at any point last month might well have been the beginning of chaos in the United States.

Then, when the weeks of all-night sessions in the Federal Reserve rooms in the Treasury had restored normal conditions, the natural flow of business worked instantly to vindicate the whole theory of the system. Says the official summary:

> Between March 4 and March 22, there was a return flow to the Reserve banks of $558,000,000 of gold and gold certificates and of $319,000,000 of other currency, and the reserve ratio advanced to 55.5 per cent. Discounts for member banks, which had increased to $1,432,000,000 by March 4, declined to $671,000,000 on March 22.

At the low point, March 4, the reserve ratio had stood at 45 per cent.

Whatever the future may hold in the way of bold experimentation with the foundations of this banking system, the Nation will do well to keep in mind that any weakening of Federal Reserve resources through inflation, doles, or fantastic spending, constitutes a thrust at the credit of the United States Government and the welfare and security of all the people.

SALES TAX AFFORDS RELIEF.

A number of States have adopted the sales tax as a means of raising funds for emergency relief. One of the first recommendations of Gov. Lehman of New York was enactment of a sales levy to clear away the huge deficit of that State. In spite of the fact that the sales tax horrified President Roosevelt, his successor at Albany considered it a necessity to put New York on a sound financial basis.

Legislatures in at least five States have approved the sales tax this year. Only one State, Idaho, has definitely turned its back on the sales tax. In a large number of State capitals the issue is still pending. Indications are that before the legislative sessions now in action are concluded levies of this type will have been adopted in every section of the country.

Not many of the legislatures favor the sales tax in principle. But they see it as the only practicable means of raising money for emergency purposes when other sources of revenue are unproductive.

This disposition on the part of the States to tap new sources of revenue has a vital bearing upon their ability to supply relief to their unemployed families. In this respect the States are much more fortunate than is the Federal Government. Most students of political economy agree that the only means by which the Government could substantially increase its income from taxes under present conditions are the sales tax and more drastic levies against incomes in the lower brackets. The higher incomes are already taxed beyond the point of diminishing returns. But the Federal Government does not seem inclined to adopt either of these revenue plans. President Roosevelt is opposed to the sales tax, and no agreement on a higher levy upon small incomes has been possible.

It appears, therefore, that the States are in a better position to finance their requirements for relief than is the Government. Opposition to a sales tax within a State melts away when it is absolutely necessary to keep the people of that State from hunger and exposure. Under no circumstances will the American people allow their neighbors to starve.

In view of this effort on the part of the States to supply their own needs, donations from Uncle Sam may not be necessary. Some States doubtless need emergency aid, but there is no reason for making grants to all States because a few are in desperate circumstances. A general handout to all States would discourage the raising of taxes, or, in cases where new taxes have already been approved, it might lead to reckless spending. It is for this reason that Congress has authorized loans instead of direct grants to States, and has confined its relief activities to those States which are unable to solve their own problems.

A survey of the new taxes being enacted and the ability of many States to take care of their own needs may disclose that it is unnecessary to make gifts of Federal money to the States.

THE MOONEY TRIAL.

California is about to perform an incredible farce. Having remained unshaken for many years by the communistic demand for Tom Mooney's freedom, that State now consents to a mock trial of the convicted bomber on a new charge. Every one admits that a new trial on a different indictment could have no effect whatsoever on Mooney's previous conviction. Yet a court has given sanction to this scheme, which is designed to fan the flames of communistic agitation for his release.

Mooney was convicted of an atrocious crime. Every time that his case has been reviewed the judges and the governors of California have reached the same conclusion—that there is no ground for disturbing the verdict or the sentence. Mooney has exhausted every conceivable means of escaping punishment. There is no occasion whatever for continued agitation of his case, except that it furnishes fuel for the reds.

Seventeen years have passed since the bombing of which Mooney was convicted took place. The principal witness against him is dead. Other witnesses have been induced to change their testimony for one reason or another. At the proposed new trial little direct evidence can be offered, and it is assumed that Mooney will be acquitted. His acquittal would then be used as a lever by radicals who are demanding a pardon for him, and by the Communists in their efforts to destroy faith in the courts and frustrate the administration of justice.

It is an old trick of felons to delay their trials until the evidence necessary for conviction has been lost and until the indignation of the public over their crimes has become dim. If criminals were to be allowed new trials seventeen years after their offenses, as a basis for demanding pardon, probably no felon could be denied a second opportunity to plunder and kill.

This new trial of Mooney on a second murder count that has not heretofore been used against him will prostitute the machinery of justice to the use of agitators who are trying to destroy organized government.

When the real crisis approaches April 7 many of the weaker breweries doubtless will keep themselves on the 3.2 standard by limiting withdrawals to 5 per cent. The easy way out, of course, would be to add water to their stocks—but that would be inflation.

Japan decides to withdraw from association with nations that insist upon the integrity of treaties.

Communists did not spoil German atrocity stories by refusing to throw in fantastic details.

POST HASTE.

A Republican steering committee has been selected, but it can only do back-seat driving.

If the Mussolini peace plan gives the dogs of war something to chew on until Ambassador Davis arrives it will have served its purpose.

Like any other club, League of Nations' rules permit resignation of a member in good standing. But is Japan sitting pretty?

Senators discovered that Harry Morgenthau learned to talk turkey while his father was Minister at Constantinople.

Bulking only 4 per cent, California's product lacks authority to call itself wine, but it might get by as claret punch.

Reduction of petroleum production does not run as smoothly as crop curtailment, but the oil men may also be holding out for a bounty for taking action that is for their own best interest.

"Roosevelt gets dictatorial powers too fast to use them." The assistant dictatorships are coming along to help.

With Japan resigning from the league, it is time for China to announce another of those concerted attacks to expel the invader.

Senators begin to wish they had swallowed the farm bill whole, like the House. Once dissected they can no more agree on it than the farmers can.

Some of us and a large contingent of the U. S. Navy were at Vera Cruz when Josephus Daniels ordered all ships to go dry. Now he will be in Mexico when beer may flow again.

Incidentally, every effort was made, with civilian help, that memorable night in 1914, to prevent supplies aboard from being saved for destruction.

With farm credit agencies all in one office, there will be no more shopping around for bargain loans.

If all the taxes, profits and prosperity that are being discounted from 5-cent beer materialize, we are all going to be so busy consuming, it will be hard to find time for other business.

It's rather a good joke on New York, which has howled so for beer, that the Legislature has so mussed up legislative action that actual licensing of consumption parlors may be two weeks late.

Finding a farm bill compromise is good practice for the real job of harmonizing the demands of railroad capital and labor.

New York brewers are worrying about a beer shortage before the flow begins, but the initial novelty requirements probably exceed steady consumption.

Art. Mullen doesn't want a judgeship. He has to watch Gov. Bryan and see that he doesn't appoint himself senator.

M. Paul-Boncour says the world crisis is not insoluble. But a universal solvent is as great a problem for the internationalists as it is for the chemists; and once discovered, what can we keep it in?

Apparently Mr. Green will be satisfied if we keep it a secret that the city babes in the wood are only to be passed one buck a day.

Some Legislatures seem to think that barring bars and barmaids ends their beer responsibility.

To Cast a Bronze to Fit the Mold, You Do It Before the Metal Is Cold

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN country towns and old communities where changes are few and slowly made, comradeship often begins in childhood and ends at the tomb.

Boy and girl playmates choose one another before they reach their teens. In high school they are sweethearts. If they go away to college or in search of better fortune, there is wordless understanding that the separation is temporary. They marry when they have learned to support themselves and continue as inseparable companions until their lives are finished.

Theirs is the perfect mating. They understand one another without speech. Their loyalty and trust are absolute. They walk together without dissimulation, pretense or concealment. In spirit and in fact they are one, and they live for one another as they would die for one another.

Such perfect comradeship is almost impossible to attain if the beginning is made after maturity, but those who meet and marry young can be comrades if they will.

At 25 they can be playmates. With love to smooth the way, they can learn to understand one another—to be patient and tolerant and kind—until the habit of comradeship wears away offending differences and their spirits merge in perfect harmony.

Marriage without comradeship isn't marriage. It is merely an arrangement by which two individuals share an income and board at the same place.

Much is written about the failure of marriage, but most of the married people I know fell in love while they were young enough to be pliable and now are comrades. Whatever their pleasures or duties, they dream and plan and build together and have no unshared interests.

We boast of our "rugged individualism," but the truth is that life seems barren and all attainment profitless if there is no comrade to share it. And since comradeship requires community of interest, the one sure way to achieve it is to find a comrade mate.

It can be done late in life if the heart remains young, but the best way to twine a vine around an oak is to let it grow there.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The Capper Arms Resolution.
Tokepa Capital.

It is noted that both the MacDonald and the Mussolini plans for preserving the peace of Europe are based upon the Kellogg treaty outlawing war.

This antiwar pact is further recognized as the key to achieving world peace by Senator Capper's joint resolution, reintroduced at the present session of Congress March 15 and referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, prohibiting export of arms and munitions to any country violating that pact.

The resolution provides that "it shall be unlawful, unless otherwise provided by act of Congress or by proclamation of the President, to export to any country violating the terms of the pact of Paris (Kellogg treaty) arms, munitions, implements of war or other articles for use in war, or make any such trade or financial arrangements with the violating country or its nationals as in the judgment of the President may be used to strengthen or maintain the violation."

Scarcely does he propose to send a message to Congress demanding the adoption of a program for harnessing the Tennessee and other mighty tributaries of the Mississippi than the Ohio breaks loose in what is perhaps the most disastrous flood since the valley's settlement, reinforcing whatever the President may say as to the necessity for action, immediate and long-continued, to stop forever such wholesale waste of wealth.

Labor Again in Step.
Boston Transcript.

Secretary Frances Perkins has invited 50 labor leaders and other persons interested in labor problems to join in a conference on unemployment to be held in Washington on March 31. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, expresses the opinion that all labor leaders will attend. It is further evidence of the pace at which events and opinions are shaped in Washington in these piping days of the new administration. When it took office, disappointment because organized labor was not permitted to select the head of the Labor Department found expression in the statement that it would not cooperate with the new incumbent. It was a statement uttered while resentment was keen. Less than three weeks have been needed for sober second thought to manifest itself.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Protest Against Communist Attacks Upon American Government as Sponsored by Russian and American Reds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with great interest the letter in your paper by Marie Andrus exposing one of the insidious ways Russia is trying to hand us an imported form of government.

The papers reveal that the Old World fully intends to go to war again, the same as it has always done. The United State has never brought about war, but it fully intends to keep itself protected, by a strong Army and Navy, against any invasion of these warring countries.

The foundation of this country laid down by our forefathers will remain, and any assault upon it through or by so-called peace advocates is only a racket in disguise. I see the D. A. R. of Maryland, in convention in Baltimore last week, passed a resolution to outlaw the Communist party from the Maryland ballot. This is a fine step, and I hope that every State in the Union will follow this move, and bring about a law for this purpose.

What is the Communist party of the United States? The program and Constitution of the Communist party of America, adopted by the joint unity convention of the United Communist and the Communist Parties, May, 1931, says:

"Indorsement and defense of Soviets in Russia with failure to advocate the Soviet form of proletarian dictatorship in the United States is hypocrisy. The establishment of a proletarian dictatorship is indispensable to the attainment of the social revolution. The proletariat must destroy the bourgeois state. It must establish a proletarian state, and thereby crush the resistance of the capitalists. In order to fulfill its great historic mission, the proletariat must organize itself into an independent political party—a Communist party—which opposes all bourgeois and opportunist Socialistic parties. Such a party is the Communist party of America."

This statement of principle is diametrically opposed to the democratic form of government as established in the Constitution of the United States. When Mr. Foster, Communist candidate for President of the United States, 1933, was called before the Senate investigating committee, he stated very clearly that his party looked upon the Soviet flag (red) as their flag and that if elected President, it would be the flag of this country. That means that Old Glory, the Red, White and Blue, would be thrown on the ash heap and the Constitution torn to pieces and burned.

How long will we Americans stand for this poison being injected in our schools and pulpits? If we are concerned about the next generation let us get busy and stamp this serpent out. MARY LOUIS GOODYEAR.

Suggests That Nickel Luncheons May Not Be Good for the Health.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post of March 21, a scheme is outlined for serving a series of economic luncheons, costing 7½ cents a person, to the White House family.

In the midst of the article it is casually mentioned that the young lady who conducted the home economics department of Cornell University, where these menus were concocted, died last fall, and that the present menus have been furnished by her successor, who cooperated with her. Nor is this all. Just above this article is a brief statement that Gov. Pinchot is recovering from an attack of food poisoning. A few weeks ago it was announced that this gentleman seated more than 40 guests, including Mrs. Roosevelt, to a nickel-a-plate dinner.

Question: "Why, when the best foods are cheaper than they ever were, should we try out these experimental concoctions on our first citizens?" We protest. There are plenty of bowwows in Washington to perform this service. ANXIOUS CITIZEN.

Farmer Wants Some Help, but Is Willing to Struggle Along With the Rest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What the farmer wants is an extension of his mortgage and other debts with a lowering of interest if possible—no foreclosures if avoidable—the same as many other lines of business. He does not want any subsidy, nor does he expect a gratuity. He is willing to await a return to normal times the same as the merchant, the manufacturer and the railroads, when all can prosper. L. B. P., a farmer.

WINTER'S MORATORIUM.

It's getting on to spring, my friend,
So let us not be wholly glum,
In but a few brief days will end
Harsh winter's mortatorium.

The tulips through the earth will sprout
To blossom gayly white and red,
And notwithstanding care and doubt
New blooms will grace the pansy bed.

Old winter bade the roses cease
Their lovely payments for a time,
But spring their bonds will soon release;
On fence and wall will ramblers climb.

The trees their purpose will resume,
The sun will drive away the cold,
And there will be a wealth of bloom
Of hollyhocks and marigold.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

EXPRESSION AND THE EYES.

THE expression of the eye, a theme which fanciful writers have always found attractive, is dependent almost altogether on the structure around the eyeball. The eyeball itself is merely a passenger. The Mona Lisa expression has been as much discussed as any. That lady seems to say to the individual spectator, "You and I have a little secret." The picture puts that across. It is an expression that most people know something about; have been parties to. They are surprised and intrigued by having the information revealed to them by some outsider. How did this painter know about it? How comes it that so many other people know about it, as witnessed by their appreciation of the picture?

The "Mona Lisa" expression is credited to the eyes. In so far as this is correct, the effect is due to the position of the eyelids. Therefore the credit should go there rather than to the eyes.

There is a somewhat prevalent notion that women can make their eyes shine by putting drops in them. Some of the drops used for the purpose, or said to be, consist of a weak, watery solution of belladonna or some kindred drug. Belladonna, in sufficient dosage, dilates the pupil and the effect of that on the appearance can be understood. At best it is a temporary effect and one that occasions some discomfort and develops some wrinkles. A dilated pupil lets in more light than is compatible with good vision and with comfort. In order to increase comfort the eyes are squinted, and that makes the wrinkles.

The method has many disadvantages to compensate for any gain in appearance and, even in that field, the losses about equal the gains.

It is thought that putting drops in the eyes makes them more shiny. An excess of tears washing across the eyeball has the same effect, but increasing the supply of tears is just what belladonna drops will not do. There is one condition that does, and that is exopthalmic goiter. If the eyeballs protrude the lids and lashes do not properly protect the delicate surfaces. An extra supply of washing fluid flowing across the surface is required. Physicians know that whenever the eyeballs are very shiny they must look out for goiter. Prominent eyeballs, pop eye not due to goiter, is apt to be a consequence of a shallow eye socket, one that is not deep enough or commodious enough to easily hold the ball. Departures of the socket from the normal may bring about some changes in the shape of the ball and, in that way, make necessary the use of glasses.

Most of the changes in expression which are noted around the eyes and which are credited to this feature recles of that part of the face. Habitual contraction of these muscles is a prolific source of wrinkles, all of which is hard on romance.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

FAMILY GAMES.

GAMES in which the whole family is able to join can be a real factor in promoting companionship and understanding between parents and children and among the children themselves.

Playing together with their children, fathers may come to know them better than in almost any other way. It is a relationship in which authority for once is laid aside where the rules of the game bind everyone alike to good sportsmanship.

The fact that the children often are more skillful than their parents and beat them is excellent for the parent-child relationship. It makes the child feel for the moment superior to those whom he usually must obey, and such moments make it easier for him to give the necessary obedience at other times.

The habit of playing together, of being good-tempered whether in victory or defeat, is excellent social discipline at any age.

It is a good idea if the family games are of a sufficient variety so that different skills are called for and so that now this child, now another, now father, now mother is the best player and most likely to win.

Games in which pure chance is the determining factor have the advantage of allowing even the youngest and least skillful to win occasionally and of forcing the most skillful and aggressive child, now and then, to accept defeat in good spirit.

Games which may be played easily either on the porch, in an attic or in a "game room" made from a light and dry cellar, are ping pong, archery, darts and shuffleboard and variations of the bean bag.

Chess, checkers, parchesi, various simple card games and anagrams are good sitting-down games which children can begin to enjoy from the age of 8 or 9 on.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES"

IF March 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12 noon and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.

Many forces of conflicting natures will be in operation on this day; it will be almost impossible to follow and set course of action. Vacillating minds and fluctuating business and social conditions will prevail. Do not believe much that is said to you by one of the other sex.

The child born on this March 28 will make his way through life without glamour or acclaim.

If March 28 is the date of your birth you are, no doubt, a person with many possibilities. You lack the quality of persistence, and it is not at all impossible that you are devoid of such energy as would enable you to accomplish a great deal. If you can stir yourself up sufficiently, you can do much in an intellectural way. You have a natural gift of being able to "get things across" to others and a position that would enable you to instruct others should be to your liking. Artistic pursuits may have an appeal for you. Business will not be greatly to your liking, but you should get along moderately well in some form of activity that will not draw too much on the imagination nor require any great originality on your part.

Born on March 28, both the men and women will have to curb their interest in those of the opposite sex; they are too inclined to waste time in attendance of a frivolous nature on others. They have broad and generous natures, they love all mankind, and do not know the meaning of the word hate. Once married, they settle down to a quiet and happy existence.

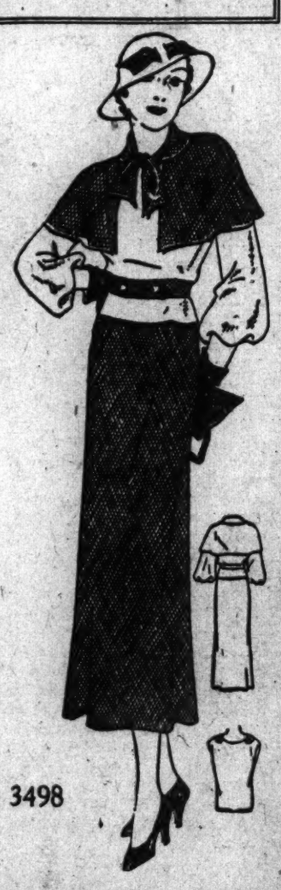
Fifth Avenue Fashions



THE gray ensemble, so utterly smart for spring, is doubly attractive if it wears a shoulder cape and has a jumper blouse.

A thin tweedy woolen in a checked pattern with a soft angora finish was used to fashion this youthful model. The jumper blouse was plain light gray woolen. The cape, being removable, makes it so practical for the business woman.

Another equally lovely scheme is brown and white crinkly crepe silk print. The blouse of chartreuse green plain crinkly crepe silk makes a most interesting contrast.

Carried out in plain crinkly crepe silk, in navy blue is stunning. Use white crepe for the cape collar and tie and wear a white leather belt.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

COOK NEW BEETS WITH TOPS FOR TASTY SPRING EATING

By ANN BARRETT

SOMETHING different? Spring brings the answer in the form of tender, little new beets cooked with the tops on (a la Dorothy Gish), sauced generously with butter, and garnished with hard-cooked eggs. Or maybe beets a la Irene Dunee—pickled with eggs and onions, in a sweet-sour sauce.

How? Well, starting with the beets themselves, they should be fresh from the ground if they're to taste best and cook fastest. Wash them well, but don't break the skin as this holds in flavor and color during cooking. Only if the beets are very tiny (not more than ¾ inch through) should you cook them right with the tops. Otherwise, cut the tops off about 2 inches up the stem from the beets, and cook them separately in just a little boiling water. The beets (in a separate kettle) will take more water. And more time—30 to 45 minutes, depending on age.

Pickled Beets.

When you've cooked a quart of beets in boiling water, here's how to pickle them with eggs—in a dish that's especially timely at Easter. Heat up to 2 cups of vinegar. Then add 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon each of whole black peppers, whole cloves and caraway seeds, and ¼ cup brown sugar. Bring this mixture to a boil, then pour it over your beets sliced up with as many onions as you like. Let this mixture stand overnight at least. Then drain off the juice and let your hard-cooked eggs stand in it till they are colored to taste. Good!

For another kind of beet pickle—that's endlessly popular with meats—do this: Combine 1½ cups each of finely chopped cooked beets and raw cabbage with ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup grated horse radish, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and enough vinegar (about ⅓ cup) to mix smooth. A perfect mate for browned corned-beef hash.

German-Style Beets.

Another good bet—say with breaded veal cutlet and browned potato—is German-style beets cooked this way. Wash and boil 12 medium beets till tender. Plunge them into cold water, rub off skins and slice thin. Then brown 3 tablespoons butter and 1 tablespoon flour. Stir in ½ cup stock or bouilion, add 1 teaspoon salt, a few grains of ground clove, 1 teaspoon ground caraway seed, 1 teaspoon minced onion. Bring to a boil. Then add 1 tablespoon sugar and ⅓ cup of vinegar. Put in the beets, simmer a few minutes. Then add 3 tablespoons sour cream. Serve very hot.

A beet salad? Sure. Here's a good one: Scoop out the centers of medium-sized, cooked beets. Fill them with 2 hard-cooked eggs chopped and mixed with ¼ cup chopped sweet pickle, 2 teaspoons anchovy paste and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce.

Send for Recipes.

This is the kind of salad that needs only some good bread and butter or rolls to make the backbone of a perfect lunch. How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

REMEMBER that it is the part of efficiency to gather all the preparations you intend using in giving yourself a facial at home, arrange them conveniently, and then get ready for your first step.

Place a piece of ice or several ice cubes in one of the two glass bowls.

Headband.

Ready to begin? Apply a headband to protect your hair. Always do this even if the treatment is to be a very short one. You want the cream on your face and forehead, too, but not on your hair, or the wave may suffer.

Here's a grand pattern for a headband: A piece of madras about 8 inches wide. It's pliable and not as bulky as a towel. Make two narrow folds in the headband and place across the forehead hair line, tucking the hair back. Then pin at the back of the head. It should be quite tight, should not slip, and yet feel comfortable and it should not be loose enough for cream to work its way through.

Ready for the cleansing. Pour a little skin tonic over the ice in the glass bowl. Make two small flat pads of absorbent cotton, one pad to apply the cleansing cream and the other to remove every bit of cream after the treatment. There's a way to make the cotton pads too. Take a large fluff, wring out of cold water and flatten.

Take one of these pads, moisten in the iced skin tonic. Then add cleansing cream to it. I recommend doing this with a little wooden spatula or the small "sore throat sticks" obtainable in the drug stores.

Start the cleansing not on the face but on the neck, way down at the base or on the shoulder. Sweeping upward movements on the neck up, and around. Then on the face; three upward motions on either side of the face, then around the chin, around the mouth, down on the nose and across the forehead.

Having applied the cream all over neck and face, remove with cleansing tissues. They are soft, silky, will not stretch the skin and actually economical because they save towels and laundry bills. In removing the cream, just as in applying use an upward and outward movement. This is important because our muscles tend to sag downward naturally, and a downward movement when applying or removing preparations would only make matters worse. An upward sweep helps to lift, keeping the muscles in normal position.

Many women feel that they must use soap and water for cleansing. In that case, soap should be applied just as the cream is and rinsed very thoroughly. Then the cream used as above. The liquefying type of cleansing cream is excellent to remove dust, dirt, impurities and every bit of make-up. Which reminds me that the cleansing cream should always be used before retiring; no rouge or powder left on the skin overnight—never, never!

The Meanderer

Looks Over Riding Clothes, Accessories for the Home Bar and a Gift Shop of Infinite Variety.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Now that bridle paths, so incomparably beautiful about Washington, are beckoning insistently, riding clothes have importance. Riding breeches for women, known as Jodphur trousers, are recommended as extraordinarily well fitting by those who have purchased them. The trousers are long, with a strap to fit under the foot, and are to be worn with the short Jodphur boots. There is economy in Jodphur riding togs, for the trousers, of a corded fabric, sell for $3.95 up and the Jodphur calfskin boots are $7.50 up.

Elastic, well-fitting foundation garments for riding and other sports are in an F street corsetry and beauty shop known to Washington women for 30 years. The new two-way stretch garments that will not "ride up" on the figure are ideal for wear under riding clothes, the authoritative saleswoman told the Meanderer. Such foundation garments will give excellent support and correct lines for the closely fitting riding togs. Two-way stretch garments are priced from $3.50 up and are in sizes up to 44, with the larger sizes naturally costing more than the minimum price. For the slim-figured rider there are two all-elastic step-in types of elastic girdles that are ideal supports and cost $3.50. There is no charge for fitting and alteration of the foundation garments.

A bit of sporting linen that is just out of its packing box in a gift shop of distinction is known as the "bar towel." It is of heavy, self-fringed ecru linen, stamped in fast colors with authentic labels of age-old liquors. Men will enjoy this clever accessory for the home bar. They will like the mannish set of heavy linen cocktail napkins, similarly stamped, in the same shop. The towel and napkin set are $1 each.

A pretzel jar of copper-bound wood for $1.25; cellophane moisture proof dollies that look like lace, 15 cents a dozen; a three-tray, nontarnishable copper serving tray that collapses conveniently, but never accidentally, selling for $1.25; a lacquered brass (heavy genuine brass) two-tray coffee or cocktail table with real teakwood foundation for $2.95, formerly $7.50; liquor containers with pewter stoppers, $1.25, which may be labeled with detachable pewter lettering for Scotch, rye, gin, &c.; and even liquor locks for safe keeping of valuable bar materials are all in the gift shop with infinite variety the Meanderer likes to visit.

"Pullman pajamas" with matching robe are appealingly practical, as well as attractive. They are of dark silk materials, dotted in white, made in tailored fashion. Clad in such pajamas with the long matching robe, the woman traveler may have as much poise when she makes the journey to the dressing room in the Pullman car as if she were wearing her daytime clothes, so presentable is this Pullman pajama suit. The Meanderer found these pajamas in an F street specialty shop.

If chocolate malted milk is the drink preferred in the family, the offer of a pound can of the chocolate malted powder for 45 cents from a reliable house, with an introductory gift of free fountain pen and pencil with each pound, has decided interest. The Meanderer learned of this offer in a big grocery store on lower Fourteenth street.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A gay satin blouse, one in lace of a different type, and another in colored organdy, tell a spring story. (Selected on Fifth avenue.)

HONESTLY, the new blouses just slay me! That means, I simply luvum, and I'll bet you do, too! Why, as a lesson in nonchalance, just you try wearing a blouse and skirt to some affair—and see what an instant success you are!

There are blouses that can be worn thus, and others that require a jacket, of course. The blouse I sketched at the top is one of those jacketless ones, of course. This is satin, has an odd and delightful closing, and is something in its own right, now isn't it? The style alone gives one all sorts of ideas for blouses in various materials—the lay-may one with a satin skirt, for instance, for informal evening wear.

What does "lettuce heart" make you think of? Yes, it is a color unsurpassed in blousedom—and newer than the new, now don't you think so? The color is so faint that it is still almost a white, but it isn't a white, and that makes for all its newness and chic! Especially in satin and crepe lettuce green is lovely in blouses and best with black skirts, I think.

Gay colorings, oh, very gay, in organdy blouses, is a surprise. But with white or neutral colored skirts—summer in all her glory was not arrayed as one of these! I sketched one, just to show you—below. Bright as bright, this organdy can be, being so transparent that the crudest colors do not offend, but, on the contrary, look very appealing.

And as to lace! Well, if you want to be irresistible, just try wearing a lace blouse like the one I sketched in the center—with a man's lounging suit—I mean one of those new ones that are for women, but cut on the style of men's suits, pants, pockets, lapels and all. Or wear a fluffy lace blouse with any suit, from a severe blue wool one to a shirred chiffon one—and see how many years you throw off with that.

I ask you: Is there any kind of a blouse that isn't worn these days?

* * * *

With a yard of something, or a remnant of a very expensive material, that is, one that would be very expensive if one were to buy it as other than a remnant, you can make over any frock into one that is perfectly new and stylish. I promise you! There are all sorts of ways to do it, the least of which is that of changing the shape of the sleeves with insets of puffs or something, and then matching these sleeve changes with a belt or a bolero, or an inset in the neck of the frock. For detailed sketches and instruction, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet on how to make a dozen new sleeves of old ones. You'll have as many new dresses in your wardrobe as you have sleeves then.

* * * *

Do you know that the smartest and newest colors and color combinations for the summer are yellow and blue on white or navy, and black and white? All sorts of yellow and gold and orange shades are smart on white—especially liked for children's wear.

* * * *

Funny how "knitwear" goes on forever—although no chic lady would breathe a word of it! But in knitted goods, whether of silk or synthetic, cotton or mixtures, I will say that panties and vest sets are the most comfortable and smartest type of underwear one can wear. And there is another garment that is stunningly made, very smart and elegant, and comfortably practical in knitwear, and that is the costume slip. Expensive at first, in the long run this kind of lingerie is an economy. And today—it is undoubtedly very chic. If you have visions of what used to be knitted underwear—take a look at what is knitted lingerie today, for your own education.

Stocks Hold Early in Day But Decline in Late Sales

Dividend Uncertainty Adds to Stagnation; Shares Total 493,970.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Financial markets were largely reactionary today, thus continuing the dominant trend of last week.

Stocks went through the dullest trading since January 30, but sporadic selling in a number of leaders and the absence of buying interest made for lower prices all around.

Much of the decline, which ranged from 1 to nearly 4 in some issues, occurred in the last hour. Previously, the market had been so stagnant that fluctuations were meaningless except as they reflected evaporation of the enthusiasms prevalent ten days ago.

Dividend uncertainties appeared to have been a factor of some importance in determining the list's movement. Both American and Allied chemical, whose directors meet for dividend action tomorrow, were heavy, the former losing nearly 4 points while Can yielded about 2. American Telephone was still a poor leader, off 2½ net as another of its affiliated companies cut a dividend. This concern, Southern New England, reduced to $1.50 quarterly from $2. The American company's interest in it amounts to one-third.

Du Pont was again soft, losing approximately 2 points, while Corn Products, Case, Harvester, Consolidated Gas, North American, Union Carbide, Drug, National Biscuit, Public Service of New Jersey, Safeway Stores, Firestone and National Surety declined a point or more. Rails were less cheerful than of late. Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio and Louisville & Nashville returned losses running up to 2 points.

Appointment of a Senate subcommittee to study the various plans that have been brought forward for aiding silver was accompanied by a flurry in a few metal stocks, while sugar issues strengthened on news that Cuban producers were discussing an extension of the segregation period for 700,000 tons. Wet stocks were steady, oils ignored the conservation conference in Washington. Sales totaled 493,970 shares.

With the first quarter nearing its end, Wall street searched the financial skies for signs of clearer weather. The day's business statistics dealt mostly with railroads, specifically, February earnings statements. The showing there was admittedly unfavorable, though it could be attributed in large measure to last month's State banking holidays which, just prior to the national suspension early in March, affected a large part of the country. The Government's program for aiding the carriers is still being ironed out; discussions thereon are proceeding among the major groups interested, including the road executives, security owners and labor.

Steel production, down last week to 14 per cent of theoretical capacity, has been its early 1933 rise virtually canceled, though trade reviews insist that an optimistic view is justified for the longer term. Less has been heard recently of another wage rate reduction. Pleasanter reading can be found in the record of commercial failures which thus far in March is the most favorable, for the current month in the last seven or eight years. Wall street, however, would doubtless feel more confident if it felt that deflation, in its broader aspects, had been as thoroughly completed as appears to be the case in smaller businesses.

Stocks.

The market moved on a fairly even keel until the last hour, when sporadic selling led to a further downward drift. Trading was extremely dull. Sales totaled 493,970 shares.

Bonds.

Prices generally mulled about in a narrow range, but the majority were slightly lower. Federals lost some of their early gains. Sales turnover was $9,159,000.

Curb.

Trading was almost at a standstill, but buying interest was too small to absorb offerings and prices again drifted lower. Transactions totaled 90,000 shares.

Wheat.

Unaffected by a decrease in the visible supply, wheat at Chicago closed off ¾ to ⅞ of a cent, with farm relief uncertainties again mentioned as an adverse influence.

Cotton.

Prices declined about $1 a bale. May closed at 6.19, with the general market off 18 to 20 points.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Continued strength of gilt-edged securities and foreign bonds were followed later by a hardening of prices in the industrial section and a recovery in gold mining shares. Trading on the stock exchange started the week brightly. Profit-taking caused a shading of prices from the best of the day but the closing was steady. Transatlantic shares were dull.

Paris—Influenced by the hesitancy of foreign markets, trading on the bourse was dull. Weakness in French rentes affected other issues and the closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse opened cheerful but later became irregular. The closing was somewhat weaker.

CURB TRADES FEW; QUOTATIONS LOWER

Some Specialties Ignore Trend and Go Higher; 90,000 Shares.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Curb prices moved downward today, but the market was chiefly notable for its small volume. Transactions totaled 90,000 shares against 100,000 on Friday.

Scarcity of early bids, a common complaint in a highly professional market, accounted for some sharp losses in specialties.

Aluminum Co. of America issues dropped 3 to 4 points, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore 5, Georgia Power preferred 3, Singer Manufacturing 4 and Standard Oil of Ohio preferred 2.

Utilities were heavy, but with few exceptions, their losses did not exceed fractional limits. Electric Bond & Share dropped back to 12 but rallied fractionally at the close.

A few specialties ignored the trend and pushed higher. A. O. Smith gained more than a point, and fractional improvement featured Imperial Oil, Pennroad Corporation, Pioneer Gold, Western Auto Supply and Woolworth, Ltd.

Associated Dry Goods Has $1,939,000 Loss

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—A net loss of $1,939,914 for the fiscal year ended January 31 was reported today by the Associated Dry Goods Co. This compares with net income of $563,734 in the previous year.

Mitchell Leaves Bond & Share

Groesbeck and Inch Will Divide Positions Held by Firm's Head.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 27.—Announcement was made today of the resignation of S. Z. Mitchell as chairman of the board, director and member of the executive committee of Electric Bond & Share Co., and the election of C. E. Groesbeck, former president, as chairman of the board and of S. R. Inch, former executive vice president, as president and member of the board.

Mr. Mitchell, who is 71 years old, has not been in good health for some time past and two weeks ago underwent an operation from which he is now convalescing. On the advice of his physician, he is retiring from all business activity including his directorates in the Irving Trust Co., Commonwealth & Southern Corporation and International General Electric Co., in addition to the Electric Bond & Share Co. and its affiliated companies.

Mr. Mitchell participated with the late C. A. Coffin in the formation of Electric Bond & Share Co. and from the organization of the company in 1905 to date he has been its active and directing head.

Baltimore & Ohio President Sees Early Railway Gains

Cincinnati, March 27 (A.P.).—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, believes that an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in their business would make everything "all right" for the railroads again.

The actions instituted by President Roosevelt, he said, should bring "substantial improvement" within two or three months, with the recent bank holiday marking the bottom of the depression.

Freight rates ultimately must go down, he agreed, but he said to reduce them now would ruin the roads, still carrying 70 per cent of the freight of the country.

He had nothing to say about any possibility that the Government might operate the roads.

"I'm not despondent nor discouraged about the railroads," he said, as he came here to inspect Cincinnati's new $41,000,000 union railroad terminal. "If the railroads could get 10 or 15 per cent more business, they'd be all right. Only the stockholders are suffering now."

But as conditions are, he said, the roads are handling only half of the business they are equipped to handle.

"Before 1928 every one was asking the railroads to provide more equipment. There was not too much then. There is, however, too much of everything now, and if this country was going to continue on a 50 per cent basis we would undoubtedly have to scrap some of our railroads. I don't believe, though, that this country is going to stay on a 50 per cent basis."

Carbide Earnings 97½c Per Share

Trend of Alloy Steel's Use Continues Upward, Says President.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation today reported 1932 net income of $8,781,426, equal to 97½ cents a share on the capital stock. This compares with $18,029,522, or $2.00 a share in 1931.

Total current assets at the year-end were $61,765,030 and current liabilities $6,596,984. Included in current assets were marketable securities valued at $3,450,637 and cash totaling $7,835,934.

Jesse J. Ricks, president, said that although the company was not a manufacturer of steel its position as a producer of alloys closely linked it with the steel industry. The decrease in alloy output last year, he added, was appreciably less than the decline in production of all steel, "which is evidence that the trend in the use of alloy steel continues to be upward."

The number of the company's stockholders increased from 49,369 to 53,439, a rise of about 8 per cent.

Western Union Assets Decline $3,000,000

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Current assets of the Western Union Telegraph Co. on December 31, as shown by the annual report issued today, totaled $14,610,516, compared with $17,427,273 at the close of 1931. Cash amounted to $4,677,788, against $6,315,153.

Current liabilities amounted to $12,722,350, including bank loans of $1,500,000 contracted during the year. For the previous year current liabilities totaled $13,175,078. As previously reported, operations for 1932 resulted in a deficit of $842,595, against net income of $5,974,499, or $5.72 a share on the capital stock in 1931.

Mexican Oil Stock Sale Voiding Asked

Federal Court Told Deal Was Detrimental to Stockholders.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Suit was instituted today in Federal court against the officers and directors of the Mexican Petroleum Co., Ltd., of Delaware, to set aside the sale of more than 95 per cent of the company's capital stock to the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

The action was brought by Carl Levis, a stockholder of the Mexican Petroleum Co. The suit was originally filed in Supreme Court, but on the motion of the defendants it was transferred to Federal court.

The plaintiff alleges that the sale last May for $11,245,000.79 was detrimental to the minority stockholders of the Mexican Co. and without their consent. Levis asked that the sale be set aside and the defendants, who include Amos Ball, president, and William Green, vice president, be required to reimburse the Mexican Co. for any losses sustained because of the sale.

No Dividend Declared.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Directors of Foster Wheeler Corporation today took no action on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock.

BOND CAUTION LETS MART DRIFT LOWER

Little Pressure Is Applied; Sales Aggregate Only $9,159,000.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Caution prevailed in the bond market today and prices again slipped quietly to lower levels.

It was one of those listless sessions where support was generally absent and not too much pressure was applied except in special instances. Sales totaled only $9,159,000, par value, and the average of 60 domestic corporate loans lost three-tenths of a point.

Various foreign obligations came in for a little more attention than usual. The German list, especially Government issues, was steadier, while Austrian maturities picked up a point or more and the Australians were in demand at gains ranging from fractions to more than 2 points. French 7½s were down 1½ points at one time, but rallied to close unchanged. Italian 7s gained 1½ points and the Brazilians, Belgians and Argentines moved forward.

United States Government securities were fractionally lower most of the day, but Liberty fourth 4¼s and Treasury 3¾s of 1932-47 finished with small gains.

Domestic utilities were still inclined to present a cloudy appearance. Among the more active losers of fractions to a point or more in this group were some bonds of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Utilities Power & Light and Western Union. Some loans of North American Edison, New England Telephone, Cincinnati Gas, Public Service and Consolidated Gas firmed.

A few of the industrials and rails breasted the outgoing tide. Fisk Rubber 8s gained 4 points, Kelly Springfield 6s were up 1, McKesson 5½s advanced 1¼ and Remington Arms 6s raised their price 2½. Most of the railroads skidded fractionally to a point or more, but improvement was shown by some liens of Central of Georgia, Chicago & Western Indiana, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville and Reading.

Montgomery Ward Cuts Loss by $4,000,000

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Montgomery Ward & Co. reported a loss of $5,686,783 for the thirteen months ended January 31, 1933, an improved showing as compared with the loss of $9,737,063 for the thirteen months ended January 31, 1932. The company has changed its fiscal year to end January 31, beginning this year.

Sales declined from $210,945,672 to $176,488,690, or 26.33 per cent. Financial position of the company was described as strong, current assets last January 31 being $83,460,366 against current liabilities of $7,140,395.

G. E. CO. EXPLAINS ITS INSULL LOANS

Collateral Was Excellent at Time; 41c Made on Common.

Schenectady, N. Y., March 27 (A.P.).—The 1932 pamphlet report of the General Electric Co., issued today, contains a brief explanation to stockholders of the loans made by the company to the Insull companies.

"The publicity given to the General Electric Co.'s loans to the Insull companies," the report stated, "has not always been correct. The facts in connection therewith are as follows:

"Early in December, 1931, Samuel Insull requested loans of $2,000,000 for some of his companies. Mr. Insull was at the head of companies that had been good customers of your company for 40 years, during which time their purchases of General Electric products had amounted to well over $100,000,000. Your company has, from time to time, made loans to other important customers. At the time the loans were made, the market value of the collateral was substantially in excess of the loans. At the end of the year the loans were included in assets at the market value of the collateral, which was approximately $313,000."

As previously estimated, the General Electric Co. during 1932 showed profit available for dividends of $14,404,110, equal, after dividends of 6 per cent on special stocks, to 41 cents per share on the common stocks. This compared with earnings of $40,956,996, or $1.33 per share, in 1931. Dividends of 60 cents per share on special stock and 55 cents per share on the common stock amounted to $18,439,190 for the year, resulting in a deficit of $4,035,080, which was taken from surplus.

The company's net current assets at the close of the year amounted to $163,309,000, including cash and marketable securities totaling $116,108,000. This compares with net current assets of $190,603,000 at the end of 1931 with cash and marketable securities of $122,179,000. Current liabilities were $16,579,140, against $28,482,788 a year previously. Inventories were carried at $41,686,432, compared with $57,335,498 at the end of the previous year. Notes and accounts receivable, were carried at $23,976,484 compared with $39,192,434. The company's net sales billed for 1932 amounted to $147,162,290 compared with $263,275,255 in 1931.

COTTON MART SAGS; PRICE CUT $1 BALE

May Closes at 6.19, Off 19 Points Net; Is Barely Steady at End.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Cotton followed other markets today, declining about $1 a bale under foreign selling and liquidation.

May contracts sold to 6.18 in the late trading, or 20 points net lower and closed at 6.19, with the general market closing barely steady at net losses of 18 to 20 points.

After opening 3 to 5 points lower the market worked gradually lower up to midsession.

Offerings increased near the close, and prices broke about $1 per bale from the final quotations of Saturday with October declining to 6.54. Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest for the day.

Some Southern selling was reported on the late decline, but offerings from that source were generally light and reports from the Southwest said that spot holders were showing little disposition to sell with the basis generally firm.

Liverpool cables said that market sentiment there was rather mixed with a general disposition to await action in Washington especially as regards farm relief. According to the New York Cotton Exchange service world's consumption of American lint cotton for February totaled approximately 1,095,000 bales against 1,093,000 in February last year, the total for the first seven months of this season. Port receipts, 8,681. United States port stocks, 4,411,485.

Machines Linked With Trade's Ills

Economist Explains Part Played in Recent Business Crisis.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—"Robotocracy" may or may not be a successor to "technocracy," but it at least describes an idea which is being discussed in the heavier thinking quarters of New York's financial district.

The theory, advanced by Dr. Paul P. Gourrich, prominent Wall street economist, is:

"If every horsepower of mechanical energy is able to do the work of ten men, there are harnessed in the factories of this country approximately 429,000,000 robots.

Handling of Robots.

"To supervise these robots there were, at the end of 1929, approximately 8,800,000 industrial wage earners. Therefore, each worker had under him about 49 mechanical men."

Every time a worker has been laid off, it is contended, 49 robots have ceased to function. Just how the idle robots had a hand in the depression and the recent financial crisis is explained by Dr. Gourrich in this way:

"To produce robots and to build factories for their housing has required unprecedented amounts of new long-term capital funds, the returns on which depend upon the productivity of the robots.

Production of Money.

"This money was secured through the sale of long-term securities, a large portion of which was purchased by the banks and on a still greater portion the banks made loans.

"This, in addition to the fact that it had become common practice to finance a large part of the current needs by means of securities, rather than bank loans, left the banks holding an even greater part of their funds in securities and loans on securities. This has produced a non-liquid investment banking structure, or even an investment trust banking structure, which resulted in the recent breakdown.

"It was the cessation of the employment of 113,000,000 robots that created a very difficult economic situation and a very tight banking situation, price decline, price disparities, frozen assets, hoards and disorder."

CAPITAL LEGISLATION CHEERS STEEL MEN

Strong Structure Believed Built Although Demand Is Not Yet Actual.

Cleveland, March 27 (A.P.).—While steps being taken in Washington are generally believed to be laying the foundation for a strong industrial structure, the work in terms of actual steel demand is not yet visible, the magazine Steel says.

"Though business is getting established on a firm basis and a note of confidence persists, so far this has not resulted in any pronounced increase in consumption," the magazine continued in its weekly review.

Improvement in operations at Cleveland and Buffalo has been more than offset by reductions at Pittsburgh, Youngstown and eastern Pennsylvania, while at Chicago and Birmingham the rates are unchanged, the magazine reported. Steel ingot output last week eased off a point to 14.

"Sentiment with regard to the immediate outlook for steel has become a little more subdued since it has appeared that inflation is not in early prospect, shipments are slightly lower than before the bank holidays," the review said.

"Activity is notable in pig iron. Purchases by the Chicago district foundries are the heaviest in more than two years. Cleveland furnaces have booked 7,000 tons additional.

"Some large steel requirements are emerging with preparations for beer manufacture. Inquiries have developed from Milwaukee for 2,000 tanks; an Ohio fabricator has taken prices on 50,000 tons of plates and other materials. A Milwaukee brewery has placed 1,000 tons of structural shapes for an annex.

"Led by an award of 3,500 tons for a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge tonnage has improved moderately. Railroads remain out of the market except for miscellaneous requirements."

WHEAT SUPPLY CUT FAILS TO AID PRICES

Doubt Over Legislation in Capital Puts Market in Weak Position.

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Unsettled by reports indicating doubt that the House agricultural bill at Washington would be much changed by Senate action, the wheat market developed weakness today.

At no time did wheat values go above Saturday's finish, notwithstanding that the United States visible supply total and the amount of wheat afloat for importing countries were both heavily curtailed. Word of further crop damage by severe dust-storms in Kansas was also virtually without effect as a stimulus to buy.

Wheat closed unsteady at almost the day's bottom figures, ⅜ to ⅝ net lower, corn unchanged to ¼ up, oats ⅛ to ¼ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Wheat showed a general downhill trend right from the outset. Heaviness of securities was a contributing bearish influence, together with the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations had failed to reflect Saturday's advance here. Besides, for the first time of late, slackening of demand for immediate delivery wheat in Chicago was noted. Domestic primary receipts of wheat today were more than double the aggregate at this time last year.

The best rally in wheat prices came after announcement that the United States visible supply showed 3,151,000 bushels decrease during the last week, lowering the total to 135,922,000 bushels compared with 202,269,000 a year ago. In some quarters, persistent reduction of the visible supply was regarded as pointing to a smaller carry-over at the end of the current season, July 1, than was the case in 1932. Price recoveries were only transient, however, and the day's bottom level was touched shortly before trading ceased.

Corn and oats showed relative strength compared with wheat. Corn traders stressed the near approach of the time when country marketings would naturally diminish owing to field operations. September oats reached a new high for the crop.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to hog market downturns.

PLANS LAID TO CALL MOONEY WITNESSES

Defense Also Will Ask That Billings Be Allowed to Take Stand.

San Francisco, March 27 (A.P.).—Defense preparations for the forthcoming new trial of Thomas J. Mooney, on a heretofore unused indictment growing out of the preparedness day parade bombing here in 1916, included plans today to subpena all living defense witnesses in the original case as well as many others.

Leo A. Gallagher, defense attorney, answering a statement by Police Capt. Charles Goff, conditionally offered to stipulate to the testimony given in the original trial by Frank C. Oxman, Oregon cattleman, whose surprise appearance on the stand for the prosecution in the original trial was credited with having brought about Mooney's conviction. Oxman died several years ago.

Gallagher said the defense would make the stipulation providing it were given a chance to rebut the Oxman testimony.

Goff had said the forthcoming hearing could not be regarded as a trial because the witnesses were "scattered." Gallagher asserted they were no more scattered than before. He said John McDonald, star witness against both Mooney and Warren K. Billings, was in Baltimore.

The defense said its subpenas would name Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of the convicted bomber, and Israel Weinberg, jitney driver, both of whom were similarly accused and acquitted after Oxman's testimony had been discredited. Gallagher said Weinberg was in Cleveland, and Edward Nolan, associate of Mooney, who was accused, but never prosecuted, was in Los Angeles. Mrs. Mooney lives here.

Brave Girl Saves Money of Hospital

Miss Mundell Frustrates Purse-Snatcher; Suspects Arrested.

The courage and presence of mind of the cashier at Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital yesterday frustrated an attempt by a young purse snatcher to make off with her pocket book, containing the day's receipts at the hospital, and later resulted in the young man's arrest.

The cashier, Miss Edna Mondell, of 2853 Monroe street northeast, was on her way to the bank when a young man walking at her side suddenly grabbed her by the arm and tried to pull the purse from her hands. She clung to the bag and screamed for help.

Unable to pull the bag away from her, the man threw Miss Mondell aside and darted into an alley. Police a short time later arrested Paul E. Alstead, 18, no address, who was identified by the girl as the man who tried to rob her.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

HOWEVER firm your convictions may be to the contrary, it is not alone in fanciful illusions like "King Kong," still laying them in the aisles at RKO-Keith's, that the movies apparently toy with the truth.

Of course, there never was any 50-foot gorilla like King Kong and he never tipped over New York elevated trains and otherwise wrecked the town. But you see him do it on the screen!

Elissa Landi.

Similarly, gentlemen in evening dress do not wear pink, blue and delicate yellow shirt bosoms and fashionable tables are not set in those tints, either, for formal occasions. Yet, if you were to walk on a movie set, you would see all of these things. And for a good reason.

The average visitor to a motion picture studio might well be pardoned for exclaiming, "Am I color blind, or is the director crazy, or both?"

In their endless search for those combinations which will reproduce upon the screen with the greatest degree of accuracy and fidelity to life, the picture-makers have hit upon many seeming incongruities.

For instance, a vine-clad porch in spring will seem to bear many of the somber hues of late autumn. Photographed, however, the autumnal tints come out merely as deeper shadows among the verdant tones of spring.

And if you think back, you will recall that Elissa Landi, appearing to fine advantage in "The Sign of the Cross," now at the Metropolitan for the first time at popular prices, usually gives the impression of being gowned in white. As a matter of fact, Miss Landi would be found, upon close inspection, to be garbed in a sickly unbecoming yellow, which photographs white, while white merely photographs as a blurry and disturbing glare!

That brings us around to those shirt fronts and the table cloths—jaundiced yellows, pale blues and even mild pinks photograph pure white. And that takes care of that "for a good reason" business back there a few blocks, too.

As for facial make-up, you have no idea! Your favorite players look positively weird with their war paint all on ready for the cameras. Not only are their lovely faces covered with a dull coating of livid, yellowish brown, like a sun-tan, but their lips are "rouged" with a sort of egg-plant purple, like the kid that has just been dragged out of the blackberry patch! All very ghastly.

But do not get the idea that this is all done just to be odd. Not at all. It is all done to insure an effect of greatest naturalness where it matters most—which, needless to say, is up there on that silver sheet.

But it all gives you a bit of a shock the first time you see it!

For the benefit of those who have been tearing their hair about it, it is high time to make known that the medley overture being conducted by Phil Lampkin in celebration of his first anniversary as "guest" conductor at Loew's Fox, is composed of excerpts from the following familiar works: "The March of the Toys," by Victor Herbert; "Poet and Peasant," overture by Von Suppe; "Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli; "Toreador Song," from Bizet's "Carmen;" "A Shanty in Old Shantytown," and the concluding fanfare of brass from "Kamennoi Ostrow," by Rubinstein. Worth a lot of attentiveness from anybody's ear!

Speaking of orchestras—and we can prove we were—when Morton Downey, who arrives in town at noon tomorrow to remain through the entire period of his engagement at the Earle, which does not begin until Friday, makes his four broadcasts from local studios during the ten days, he will be accompanied by an orchestra especially recruited for that purpose by Leon Brusiloff, formerly musical director at the Columbia Theater in this city and latterly at the Fox, prior to Loew's assumption of control of the F street cathedral.

It is highly probable that Mr. Brusiloff and his tooters and twangers will be heard with Mr. Downey also at the Press Club's anniversary banquet tomorrow night, when President Roosevelt will be taken into membership in the club.

The announcement that Norma Talmadge is to make a major essay at big-time revue performing will arouse a vast curiosity in many theater-minded observers. One thing that Miss Talmadge never was—and she boasted of it—was a stage player of any ilk whatever. One of the most dismal flops in an otherwise brilliant career (confined, however, strictly to the screen) was when she and Sister Constance once attempted to participate as a "sister act" on a huge benefit program at the old New York Hippodrome.

And since her talking pictures have not been so hot, either, just what is it Miss Talmadge expects to do in "High Times," when that new production is launched out Chicago way with George Jessel and Beatrice Lillie also in the cast?

So, since it is a secret and Garbo is returning to America incognito, that fact has only been broadcast in 237 cablegrams, 9,743 magazines, 516 radio stations and 4,258,992 newspapers—including the Scandinavian!

And now that it has cleared off and everything, last Thursday's last line, much to Mr. Swarmi Fedd's surprise, no doubt, appears as a paraphrase in Mr. Riley's Monday "Diary!"

It's a small world, after all.

District Act Violation Charged in Georgetown

President Roosevelt's attention was called to Section 1 of the congressional act of the District, enacted July 1, 1872, in a resolution adopted last night by the Georgetown Citizens Association.

The section provides that a Commissioner must have been a resident of the District for three consecutive years prior to his appointment. It was pointed out that the section had been violated several times in the past in making appointments.

HENRY M. PHILLIPS BURIAL TO BE TODAY

Episcopal Rites Will Be Held for Naval Laboratory Superintendent.

Funeral services for Henry Morton Phillips, superintendent of the Naval Research Laboratory, who died Sunday at his residence, 1211 Fern street northwest, will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at Trinity Episcopal Church, Takoma Park. The Rev. David C. Clark, rector of the church, will officiate. He will be assisted by the Rev. C. M. Young, rector emeritus. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Phillips graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1892 and became associated with Thomas A. Edison and subsequently with the Western Electric Co. in Pittsburgh.

He came to Washington in 1917 and became plant superintendent of the Naval Research Laboratory, holding that position until his death. He had written and published many articles pertaining to science.

He was a member of the Society of Naval Engineers and the Washington Society of Engineers. He was a delegate of the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens Association to the Federation of Citizens Associations for a decade.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"SMOKE LIGHTNING." Fox picturization of a story by Zane Grey, starring George O'Brien, with Nell O'Day, Betsy King Ross and Frank Atkinson. Directed by David Howard. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

No stories by any American writer have been more consistently made into good movies than the yarns of the wild, rugged he-man West spun by the prolific Zane Grey, whose "Canyon Walls" here makes its appearance under the title "Smoke Lightning."

Combining all the essentials of an old-time Western thriller, but leaving out all the unnecessary verbiage, as well as the inconsequential action, this picture speeds along at a merry pace, unreeling a pleasing, plausible yarn of a modern Robin Hood.

Smoke Mason wins Canyon Walls in a poker game and following the suicide of the master of the rancho, deeds over the property to the small daughter, Betsy. The sheriff, who has tried for a long while to get the property, frames a murder charge against Smoke and resurrects Betsy's uncle to assist him in his nefarious work. It all goes for naught, of course, and Smoke becomes Betsy's legal guardian and wins the charming school teacher.

George O'Brien, in the title role, does a fine Bill Haines, a la wild west, with Betsy King Ross, as Betsy, giving him a good run for stellar honors. Nell O'Day is the personable schoolma'am who finally tames the Smoke Lightning. The comedy is in the capable hands of Frank Atkinson, as Mr. O'Brien's cockney pal, and Virginia Sale, the housekeeper of the ranch.

In "Two Hundred Fathoms Deep" the elephant shark comes into his own, but do not expect any submarine photography, as the title might suggest. The other attractions are the Terry-Toon, "Who Killed Cock Robin?"; an Our Gang comedy, going fairy-tale in a big way, in "A Lad an' a Lamp," and the Paramount News.

By NELSON B. BELL.

By denominating it "a comic state of mind in continuous action," Mr. Cohan has, of course, penned the best possible description of his latest play.

Presented in one long act, without the lowering of the curtain, the dimming of the lights or any other of the usual interruptions that customarily mark the shifting of scene, the passage of time or the change of topic or modification of treatment, "Pigeons and People" is nothing if not continuous action, and reflects nothing if not a comic state of mind on the part of both Mr. Cohan and the world of which he writes.

It imposes the burden of one of the heaviest roles in modern comedy upon its author and star and affords a study in cumulative effect and drama in crescendo that can not be appraised otherwise than as an extraordinary feat of playwriting.

Parker, the central character, is a human enigma picked up from a park bench by a wealthy young man by the name of Heath, who insists upon lugging his new-found acquaintance into his handsome bachelor home and forcing all manner of distasteful attentions upon him, including food, drink, clothing, shelter and finally a check for $500.

The net profit which he derives from all this misplaced Samaritanism is a complete disruption of his domestic tranquility, a profound befuddlement as to the real identity, character and intention of his eccentric guest and a considerable involvement in a grotesque philosophy which, toward the end of the play, takes itself a little seriously as a possible solution of the political, financial and economic difficulties by which the world at the moment finds itself so sorely beset.

To bring the play to this enlivening epitome of its more sublime purposes, Mr. Cohan contrives a clever and complete consortium of contretemps and incubates something of an epic of the ambiguities of the English tongue.

Nobody says what he thinks he is saying and nobody rightly interprets what he thinks he has heard—which is, indeed, a comic state of mind if ever there was one!

The visible effects of this comprehensive confusion upon characters in the play representing big business, the law, the medical profession, the police department, the working classes, beautiful women, both married and single, and upon Parker himself are productive of an immense amount of intensely satirical fun in a vein which Mr. Cohan has not heretofore explored.

The pattern of the play is remotely related to that of Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Servant in the House," Jerome K. Jerome's "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," or Booth Tarkington's "Mister Antonio," although the physical embodiment known to the comedy's dramatis personae as "Parker" is never any more minutely defined than that—even in a momentary epilogue in which the author steps before the audience and leaves the character he has played so admirably as much as ever a problem for their own powers of determination.

There are brief intervals when Mr. Cohan's new found political philosophy is nurtured on a pabulum that runs a bit thin, but there is never a moment when his unerring sense of timing, his uncanny tricks of character-pointing by facial play and gesture or his unfailing gift of pumping blood into pallid situations fails to salvage the scene on the side of unimpeachably "good theater." It is an eloquent tribute to his stature as an actor as well as a playwright and producer that one never tires of George M. Cohan's Parker, although he is on stage for an unbroken period of almost two solid hours.

For this adventure in a new field of comedy he has surrounded himself with a cast of impeccable artists. Walter Gilbert, not seen here since his splendid work with Ethel Barrymore in "The School for Scandal," but now happily met as Heath; Paul McGrath, as Franklyn Chase, and Edward Nannery, as Gilroy, from Headquarters, comported themselves, it seemed to me, with exceptional effectiveness. Among the feminine members of the cast there was nothing to choose—all were charming.

The single setting is such as to add a substantial background to a comedy of novelty, pith and a wealth of quaint and incisive humor; a comedy, in short, that the season has not duplicated and will not be able to—a decided feather in the cap of the American Theater Society.

GAYETY

"DIMPLE DARLINGS." Empire Burlesque attraction, featuring "Princess Zulika," Billie Holmes, Betty DuVal, Nellie Casson, Kitty Seifert, Angelus Lee, Harry Evanson, Harry Levine, Bob Bates, Herbert Barris, Cress Hillory and Al Russell. Reviewed by Bud Hyman.

This week the Gayety presents "Dimple Darlings," a peppy burlesque, outstanding for it's good dancing and the attractiveness of the feminine contingent, which includes a type for every taste, blondes, brunettes and redheads.

A tall, shapely blonde, billed as "Princess Zulika," offers by far the best dancing of the evening. Her male impersonation and contortionistic dance in the "Doll House" number are sparkling bits well worth seeing, while in the same scene a cute little chorine offers a toe dance which is very well done.

Betty DuVal, "that red-headed gal from Alabama," with her winning smile, alluring curves and apparent diffidence, had to answer many encores on each of her appearances, while Billie Holmes, an attractive brunette, was also much in demand, as was Nellie Casson, another shapely brunette.

Although there is a pronounced lack of comedy, Bob Bates, presumably a straight man, offers a line of chatter, before the mike, that produces many laughs, and is hilariously funny in a bedroom skit with Angelus Lee. Harry Levine, Harry Evanson and Cress Hillory are the purported comedians of the cast.

Herbert Barris does some excellent work and Al Russell executes an intricate tap dance to lusty applause.

Girl Theft Suspect Is Bonded for Jury

Former Western High Pupil Accused of Taking Another's Clothing.

Posting $1,000 bond, Miss Virginia E. Turner, a former Western High School pupil, yesterday was released pending an investigation by the grand jury into charges of housebreaking. Bond was originally set at $1,500, but was reduced.

Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh, in informing Police Court Judge Isaac R. Hitt of the nature of the charge when she was given a preliminary hearing, said that it involved the theft of clothing valued at $43 from the home of Mrs. Sarah Coe, 3900 Cathedral avenue northwest.

Police said the girl took a fur coat from the locker of Miss June A. Coe, daughter of Col. Henry C. Coe, U. S. A., in Western High School and, finding a key in the pocket of the coat, had gone to Miss Coe's home and used the key to enter. A plea of not guilty was entered by Miss Turner.

A used Oldsmobile is practically the same as a new one, except that it's had a bit more mileage, which only improved its running quality. For a real used car value, there's no better buy than the Olds. All of the modern up-to-date engineering that is part of a new car is also incorporated in the used one. The difference in price alone is reason enough to take advantage of today's used car values. MYER AND SCHULTE HIT HOMERS AS NATS WIN, 6-4

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MIKI GELB, of New York, has contracted to engage the attentions of Petey Sarron for eight round tonight at Portner's Arena, which appears to be a large order in view of the knockout tactics the Birmingham Syrian has displayed in his only two tests locally.

Until some other lad comes along to oust Sarron from popular favor among Washington's fight fans, the Birmingham boy will do. Gelb comes down from New York touted as the Hungarian champion with a national ranking higher than Sarron's, but if he is standing erect at the end of the eighth round, he will be the first of Sarron's opponents at Portner's Arena to accomplish the feat, and if his arm is raised in victory at the end of the bout, he can claim the distinction of being the third man thus honored in Sarron's eight years of professional campaigning.

As a piece of fighting machinery, Sarron has captured the fancy of local fans. In addition to showing a willingness to fight, Sarron fights according to the best definition of the word, throwing punches until there are no more punches to be thrown.

If he has any weakness, it is his defense. But on that point, Sarron takes care of his defense with his attack. He is comparatively easy to hit, as Benny Schwartz discovered, but his compensating factor is that he has a remarkable ability to take it, so the damage is not great.

Sarron's style is likened to that of Maxie Rosenbloom. When he is crowded, Sarron doesn't bother to duck or sidle along the ropes or use fancy footwork to get out of danger. He simply cuts loose with a counter-flurry of punches that drives his opponent back or down. If they stand up and fight, they usually go down.

Sarron is the likeliest-looking championship timber now among the Washington fistic colony. Despite the claims of his New York management, Reds Barry shows little sign of crashing the select circle of heavyweights. Marty Gallagher's fondest admirers are ready to concede he is a third-rater at best. Les Kennedy had his chances out on the Coast and missed. Roddy Davis and Young Van are still raw kids.

This Gelb is supposed to be a puncher of parts himself. If he is, it should make for a good battle at Portner's tonight. All that is required is for Gelb to show an inclination to fight. Sarron will take care of the rest of the show, whether he wins, loses or draws, for the Syrian is always in there with an eye to the crowd.

Sarron, Gelb To Collide Tonight

Both Punch Hard for Size; Dougan Faces Landers in Six.

By DAVE HERMAN.

PETE SARRON, Dixie's leading challenger for world's featherweight honors, and Miki Gelb, holder of two championships in Austria, may not have to resort to any great amount of defensive tactics in their eight-round feature match at Portner's Arena in Alexandria tonight.

Both drilled along the same lines—that of charging in ferociously and swapping punches with machine-gun swiftness—Sarron and Gelb may set such a hurricane pace in their fight that little time will be spent by either in covering up or putting up a solid front to catch his opponent's blows.

For Sarron, long the master of the one-two punch, already has demonstrated his grit and agressiveness. He showed little mercy for either Frankie DeAngelo or Benny Schwartz, leaping out like a tiger from the opening gong and pounding away furiously like the roaring pistons of an automobile.

Sarron Led in Other Fights.

Sarron did not wait for either fighter to come to him. He led the way, and was so completely the champion of both boys that little opportunity was offered him to use his defense. Whether he has a powerful guard remains to be seen. Against Fidel LaBarba, who won an unpopular decision over him last year, the Dixie titleholder found a man—the former Olympic champion—who could typewrite and shoot out blows as well as he could.

Gelb, groomed for the shot by Jimmy Bronson, one time trainer for Gene Tunney, may be the stiffer puncher of the two. But the fact remains that he likes to trade at both short and long range.

Whether this type of fighting or milling will appease the boxing appetite of the Portner's patrons also remains to be seen. Pete Sanstol and Jimmy Mack put up a whale of a bout that was crammed with sensational punching, a regular Madison Square attraction that met with little favor. However, neither had a terrific punch that night.

But Sarron and Gelb are good punchers, and there are some observers who do not think the match will go the limit. Before appearing at Ritchie Stadium last year, in a substitute role for his countryman, An-

A's Seek Camden Site for Sundays

Camden, N. J., March 27 (A.P.).—John D. Shire, vice president of the Philadelphia Athletic Baseball Club, today looked over two sites here to consider their desirability for Sunday baseball games.

He was accompanied by Percy M. Saxe, consulting engineer for both the Phillies and the Athletics, and officials of the Camden Chamber of Commerce.

The Athletics had hoped to play Sunday baseball in Philadelphia this summer, but the Pennsylvania State Senate defeated a bill making Sunday sports possible.

Sholl's Faces A. A. U. Test At Tech

Parrick to Lead Crop Five Against 1932 Champs Tonight.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

NO ABILITY to tell fortunes or to discern the messages written on dazzling crystals is required to see that the champion Sholl's basketers are pointed headlong for a storm tonight at Tech High School, where they play Crop Production in the feature of the District A. A. U. tournament program which, as has been customary for the past eight years, is sponsored by The Post.

A supporting card of two games has been arranged in hopes of separating several hundred sport-loving fans from their two-bit pieces. Both involve 145-pound teams. St. Martin's plays the Washington Black Hawks in the first of these, and the second will be staged by the Knights of Columbus, with the help of McLean A. C., a referee, and sundry other officials.

Sholl's Team Plays In Feature.

But, as has been dutifully pointed out, the Sholl's-Crop Production debate will overshadow both preliminaries. It represents another team's annual attempt to unhorse the seemingly unhorsable A. A. U. champions who have been winning so frequently it's getting to be a habit a bad habit. Heretofore a team's prospects of stopping the soup and salad lads have been as bright as a lump of coal, but tonight a real reason exists for believing Crop Production can turn miracle-men. It's Wick Parrick, the lanky George Washington University two-pointer.

A wandering gypsy told Manager Dick Mothershead, of Sholl's, to beware a tall man with dark hair, who would cross his path in the near future, leaving a big bundle of woe at the crossing. Dick can stand almost anything, even having his hair mussed, but don't beat his basket ball team. Beau Mothershead has been trembling in his size sevens ever since his boys were paired off with the crop statisticians, because this Parrick person may be that tall man the gypsy was talking about.

Well may he tremble. All Parrick did in his last tournament appearance was score an even dozen field goals and three fouls for 27 points. Crop Production defeated the Crescents in that game, nosing them out by a 63-37 score.

Parrick was a tower (take that literally if you desire to) of strength with the George Washington team until he missed out on his arithmetic in the exams, after that he became a star with Crop Production. But the team boasts other potential pointgetters. In the Crescent fray Hart accounted for 10, and Johnson bettered this by 2. Of course, Brown, Dennis and the Asher brothers did their bit, but it was trifling sums of 6, 7, or 8.

Sholl's has its old reliables, Smiling Sam Hook, Bernie Jones, Hal Kiesel, Bobby Lucas, &c., to keep its banner aloft. With a string of more than 40 consecutive victories to show for their efforts it would be futile to dwell on their ability. Any group of players who can roll up such a long string of victories is good.

Poreda Stops Heeney; Anzac Takes Beating

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Old Tom Heeney, once the Hard Rock from Down Under, now just a stepping stone for ambitious young heavyweights, failed to last 10 rounds tonight with Stanley Poreda, a young Jersey City warrior, in a 10-round feature bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

Heeney, who battled Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship in 1928, struggled through nine rounds and 1 minute 24 seconds of the tenth before Referee Jack Dorman led him to his corner. He was still erect but covered with blood from a split left cheek, a gashed ear and assorted cuts on his face.

POP WARNER HONORED.

Philadelphia, March 27 (A.P.).—Before going out to Temple Stadium to look over his new football pupils for the first time, Glenn S. (Pop) Warner was given a luncheon by 200 well-wishers today.

VON PORAT VS. LOUGHRAN.

Chicago, March 27 (U.P.).—Otto Von Porat, lean heavyweight boxer from Norway, will meet Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, former light heavyweight champion, in a 10-round bout at Philadelphia on April 19. Von Porat accepted terms for the fight today.

MICKEY WALKER SUED.

Los Angeles, March 27 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, known in boxing circles as the "toy bulldog," today was named defendant in a suit for $10,175 damages filed by Maybelle E. Stephen, who charged assault and battery.

Killefer Gives His Browns New Deal

Fortified by Trades, Pilot Aims for Spot Higher Than Sixth.

QUALITY, rather than quantity, and the rebirth of spirit and dash that often comes to established stars with a change of scenery, are the twin hopes of doughty Bill Killefer for a place somewhere above sixth for his St. Louis Browns in the 1933 American League drive.

Dissatisfied with the even tenor of the past three years, wherein the Browns wound up with remarkable accuracy within a one-game range of 64 won and 90 lost each season, finishing fifth once and sixth twice, Killefer dove head-first into the frantic trading melee that enlivened the past winter.

But he gave value for value received, two outfielders and two pitchers to the Washington Nationals for two outfielders and two pitchers, with all eight so evenly matched that time alone can tell who got the better of the deals.

Exchange Two Fly-Hawks With Nats.

Killefer himself thinks they all will help a very great deal.

"The new men," he told the Associated Press, "not only add new spirit to the team but will strengthen it as compared to the Browns of 1932. I don't know how the Browns will finish in 1933, but I state here emphatically that the team will show more good all-around baseball than it did last season.

"Defensively the Browns should be one of the best teams in baseball. In Sam West we have added the cream of defensive outfielders. He proved that last year by handling more chances than any other outfielder in the American League.

Speedy Infield Seen by Killefer.

"I don't think that any infield will be faster or better on defense than the Browns. Young Art Scharein rounded it out when he came up from the Texas League late last season and gave one of the greatest exhibitions at third base the St. Louis fans had ever seen."

Since the Browns took only 23 men to the training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., the smallest of any major league club and exactly the limit allowed a team through the season, there has been no battle for places on the club.

The infield is exactly that which finished the 1932 season, Scharein at third, Jim Levey at shortstop, Oscar

C. U. Informally Swamps Maryland Gridmen, 26-7

BEHIND the smashing bucks of Sniscack, the sweeping end runs of Tom Gearty, and the stellar interference of Bill Stafford, Catholic University defeated the Old Liners from Maryland at College Park yesterday afternoon in an informal football game, 26 to 7.

The Terps offered little resistance as the Cardinal machine swept through the line and around the ends time after time for substantial gains. The trained foot of Dick Nelson was the only factor that kept the score as low as it was.

The Cards took the ball shortly after the opening kick-off and marched 60 yards down the field on off-tackle plays, putting the ball on the Terps' 6-yard line for a first down. The Liners tightened up and held for three downs, but Gearty skirted the end on the next to cross the mark standing up. Oliver missed the conversion.

Shortly after, the Cards counted again when runs by Agusterfer and Gearty placed the oval on the Liners' 12-yard line, Sniscack going over for the marker. He also made the conversion.

From this stage the Terps held, the booting of Dick Nelson and line bucks of Sachs being instrumental. Fumbles at crucial moments were costly, however, and the Liners were unable to cross the goal stripe at this time. A pass, Nelson to Ennis, in the closing minutes of the game accounted for the Terp score. Fletcher made the conversion.

It was with about two minutes to go that the Cardinals counted twice on a pass to Fleming and a line buck by Jankowski. Collins made the conversion on the former, but kicked wide on the latter.

Hattos and Sachs looked good in the Maryland back field, with Tommy Webb and Lou Ennis bearing the brunt of the attack on the line. White, Cardinal center, and Fleming, on the end, shone out for C. U.

National League Makes Radical Schedule Shifts

NEW YORK, March 27 (A.P.).—The National League today fulfilled its promise to make a radical change in its 1933 baseball schedule, advancing the first intersectional clash five days and the second East-West series nearly three weeks. The 154-game schedule opens April 12 in Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago.

In comparison with last year, when the East invaded the West, May 5 and 6, the Western clubs this year will come East for their opening series May 1 and 2. After closing the intersectional series on the Atlantic Seaboard, the eight teams will move into the Western cities May 15 and 16. Last year this shift was not made until June 7.

The Pirates will be the first team to move eastward, opening a three-game stand in Philadelphia, May 1. The following day, however, the Cardinals will be in Brooklyn. the Cubs at the Polo Grounds, meeting the Giants, and the Reds at Boston.

When the scene shifts back to the West, the Phillies will play in Pittsburgh, the Cardinals will be at home to the Dodgers, the Giants will play in Chicago and the Braves will invade the Reds' home grounds.

For the season's openers in the West, the league champions, the Chicago Cubs, will entertain the revised Cardinals at Wrigley Field, while the Pirates, picked by many as the team to beat, will invade Redland Field.

The two Eastern inaugurals will bring together Bill Terry's New York Giants and the Braves at Boston, with Brooklyn playing at Philadelphia.

Manager of Carnera Sought on Tax Charge

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—A Federal warrant was issued today for William J. Duffy, manager of Primo Carnera, the boxer, charging him with evading tax of $2,007 on an alleged net income of $34,170 in 1930.

Duffy's attorney, Harry S. Hechheimer, promised to surrender his client for pleading tomorrow.

D. C. Amateur Boxing Bill Again in Senate

Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, yesterday reintroduced in the Senate the old Hartley District amateur boxing bill, which passed the last session of the House, but died on the Senate calendar.

While prohibiting professional prize fights, the bill would establish a boxing commission to regulate amateur boxing matches in the District, now prohibited by law. Nothing more valuable than a medal, a certificate or a $35 watch could be at stake in such matches.

Frisco Ready to Sell Pitcher Davis to Cubs

San Francisco, March 27 (A.P.).—Officials of the San Francisco Seals are wondering if the Chicago Cubs' bosses have forgotten the address here. Through the press last Saturday the local magnates learned the Cubs were after Curt Davis, star right-hander, who led Coast League hurlers last season.

"We've been waiting around, but nobody's been knocking at our door," said Secretary George A. Putnam today. "The Cubs can have Davis, and at a bargain price, too. We want to see him get a chance in the big show."

Davis had an earned run average of 2.24 last season, winning 22 and losing 16 games.

CUBS SHIP ROOKIE.

Los Angeles, March 27 (A.P.).—Chicago's National League championship Cubs started spring house cleaning today when Louis (Buck) Newsom, young right-hand pitcher, was turned over to the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League.

BROWNING STOPS CORDOVANO

New York, March 27 (U.P.).—Jim Browning, of Missouri, tonight successfully defended his claims to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship by throwing Sam Cordovano, of New York, with a leg scissors in 31:43 of their scheduled finish match at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

Cordovano, former Georgetown grid star and present assistant football coach at Columbia, lacked the experience to cope with Browning.

Macks' Rally Wins From Cards

A's, Held to 3 Hits Until Eighth, Score by 6-4 Count.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Held to three hits until the eighth inning, the Philadelphia Athletics unloosed a counter-attack which routed the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 4, from the American League team's training camp today.

Frank Higgins started things with a triple and Doc Cramer, pinch hitting for Tony Freitas, drove the third baseman in with a double. Then Mickey Cochrane beat out a single and Ed Coleman's high fly behind second got away from Estel Crabtree. St. Louis outfielder. The two runners scored, giving the A.'s their margin of victory.

Phils Rout Braves, 11 to 5.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Pounding two rookie pitchers and stealing bases freely at the expense of a third, the Phillies gave the Boston Braves an 11-to-5 trouncing today.

The Phils could not hit Kirley, trying to earn his feathers as a Brave, but they scored two runs in the seventh inning without a hit. Three walks and four steals, including a double steal, did the trick.

Yanks Pound Ball to Beat Reds.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—With Charlie Devens, Harvard graduate, and Lefty Gomez pitching five-hit ball, the New York Yankees pounded the ball to all corners of Huggins' Field today to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 16 to 3.

Devens held the Reds to two hits and one run in the five innings he was on the mound. The National Leaguers got the remainder of their hits and runs off Gomez, one of them a homer by Lombardi in the seventh. Bill Dickey also drove out a home run in the midst of the Yankees' six-run rally in the fifth.

Browns Bunch Hits to Down Dodgers.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns bunched four of their six hits in the seventh inning off Ray Benge to score all of their runs and defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1, today. The victory was the American Leaguers second in three games with the Dodgers.

Bill Clark, hurling the first six innings for the Dodgers, held the Browns to one hit—a single by Scharein in the fourth. The Browns got to his successor quickly, however, collecting four straight singles off Benge to score their runs.

Bump Hadley and Jack Knott, dividing the pitching assignment for the Browns, held the National League club to four hits.

San Antonio, Tex., March 27 (A.P.).—The first real rainfall the Detroit Tigers have encountered in their spring training camp today postponed the opening game scheduled with the New York Giants.

The Bengals will meet the Giants in Beaumont tomorrow, weather permitting, in the first of a series of exhibition games, which will take the clubs through the South and land them in New York two weeks hence.

Wes Ferrell in Debut Soon.

New Orleans, March 27 (A.P.).—Wesley Ferrell will be given his first pitching assignment of the training season this week in one of the Cleveland Indians' exhibition games with the New Orleans Pelicans, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh said today. Cronin Tongue Lashes Team About Lack of Bat Power.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—Lashed by a totally unlooked-for tirade from peace-loving Joe Cronin, the sluggish Nat sluggers got a piece of that old apple down here today and busted their way to a 6-4 win over the Birmingham Barons. The game was considerable more one-sided than—as the boys say—the score would indicate.

Some idea of how the Nats mind papa, when he tells them they'd better start hitting, or else, can be had from the facts about to be related. The first ball pitched by Ray Caldwell, who used to hurl for the Yankees back in the fourth Ming dynasty, was socked on the nose by Buddy Myer and propelled far up into the right field stands for a home run.

Right behind Myer, Joe Kuhel coaxed a walk, Heinie Manush on a perfect hit-and-run single to right boosted him to third. Cronin popped (a fine thing to do after that locker room loquaciousness). Then to the great surprise of the 39 people in the stands, Goose Goslin got a hit, a single to right that brought Kuhel home.

Schulte Hammers Homer.

Fred Schulte, following Goslin, knocked a stitch-breaking home run to the distant center field fence, scoring Goslin and Manush. The uprising began to subside after Bluege had singled. Cliff Bolton forced him and Earl Whitehill acknowledged a fine cheer from the gallery by rolling to the second baseman. Five runs, after all, aren't bad in these depressed days.

It was too good to be true, all this honest-to-Hannah ball socking. The old man out on the mound, Mr. Caldwell, cackled to Old Man Milan, the manager, to let him stay in there awhile, sun was mighty nice out thar, by hem, and he did right well after that, Manush's triple in the second and Bluege's single in the third being the only hits off him. After Caldwell was wheeled off the field, a 17-year-old kid named Fines, a little left hander, began pitching and looked tolerably good, although Washington scored its sixth and final run off him in the fifth, when, with two out, Goslin hushed a tormentor in

JOCKEY COUCCI RIDES THREE WINNERS AT TROPICAL PARK

Feature Race Captured by Banderlog

Outbound Is Second and Honey Locust Next Over Line.

Romac Wins Third at $244 for Record Mutuel of Meet.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Members of the Three Score and Ten Club were guests of the Gables Racing Association here this afternoon and the feature, a mile test for 3-year-olds and upward, fourth on the card, was named for that organization.

Silvio Coucci, the "Bronx Express," completed a double and again won a riding duel with little Johnny Westrope when he brought C. V. Whitney's Banderlog home a winner of the headline event, with Outbound taking the place a length and a half back. This brought Coucci's total number of winners for the meeting up to 15, or seven more than Westrope, and he added another to his string in the sixth on Revonah. Third money went to Honey Locust, which was an additional two spans away. Banderlog paid $11.90 and ran the distance in 1:38 flat.

Coucci Draws Fine Of $50.

Banderlog received a perfect ride. Coucci rated him behind the leaders while Outbound, Wayden and Honey Locust showed the way. The Whitney gelding began his move leaving the back stretch, coming around the outside and wore down Outbound in the stretch run. Starboard Light, the favorite, was poorly handled and finished fourth.

Coucci was fined $50, however, upon the report of a patrol judge that Banderlog bore in and caused interference after leaving the back stretch.

Romac, a 3-year-old owned by Mrs. W. M. Moore and ridden by Coucci, paid the highest price of the meeting when he won the third race by a nose to pay $244.30 for a $2 straight ticket. Comstockery won at $228.10 for $2 on opening day. Second money went to another longshot, Baptism, which beat the favorite, Black Watch, by a length. The Quinella paid a new high price of $1,089.90 while the daily double was split, no tickets being sold on the combination of Noah's Pride and Romac.

Romac Up in Final Stride.

Noah's Pride bettors received $4.70 while those holding Romac tickets received $111.40. Romac raced close to the pace from the start and closing with a rush through the stretch got up in the final stride to beat Baptism. Black Watch was a forward contender all the way. Golden Effort stopped after showing the way to the final furlong.

Noah's Pride led eleven other sprinters across the line in the 6 furlongs event that opened the program, returning his backers $9 for $2. The gelded son of Noah finished a length clear of Tremendous, while the latter was another length in advance of Wayward Lad for the place. Noah's Bride overtook the pacemaker, More Anon, after reaching the stretch and had enough left to hold Tremendous safe at the end. The latter came from far back, but Apprentice McCleary was unable to do the filly justice in the final drive.

Her Hero fooled the talent when he lasted to win the juvenile dash by a neck at $11.50 for $2. Flaghorn, heavily played, doubtlessly was best, but could only finish second as the race was run, beating Bubbling Ways by three lengths for the place. Her Hero was off in motion before the others were fully in their stride, although Bubbling Ways was first to show right at the break.

The winner was coming through when the start came and opened up a big lead around the bend, but Flaghorn, crowded back early, closed very fast on the outside and was catching the leader with every stride.

Captain Red, well backed at $5.40 for $2, was much the best of the field in the fifth event, scoring by five open lengths over the neglected Tiny Wrack, which in turn beat Chief Almgren by a nose for the place. The winner outran his opposition from the start and increased his advantage in the stretch run. Tiny Wrack and Chief Almgren had the place battle between themselves throughout, with the former outlasting his rival.

Jockey Coucci pushed himself further into the limelight when he booted Revonah first home by two lengths to pay $7 in the sixth contest. It was the Bronx Italian's third triumph of the day. Dodiodo saved the place by a length and a half from Clean Play. Revonah had the speed of the outfit and was on the head end for the entire mile and a sixteenth, winning with something left. Dodiodo broke from outside the stalls and gradually moved up, but was no match for the winner.

Celtics-Renaissance Play Here Tomorrow

A pipe-organ concert has been thrown in for good measure as an added inducement to fans attending the Celtic-Renaissance basket ball game tomorrow night at the Auditorium. Louis Brown, well-known keyboard manipulator, will start piping at 7:30 o'clock and continue until the teams square off for the game.

Rated among the top-notch teams of the country, even better than our own Eagles with Joe Sweeney, et al, the Celts and Rens are expected to show the fans all there is to be seen in court trickery. Goldie Ahearn is dispensing tickets at his Ninth street haberdashery.

Two D. C. Clubs Given Rifle Body Charters

The National Rifle Association yesterday announced the issuance of charters to the Engineer Rifle and Pistol Club and the Eastern High School Cadet Corps Rifle Club.

Composed of reserve officers of the District, the Engineer Club has a roster of 21 members. Henry S. See is its president. Other officers are C. M. Borror, vice president; Norman C. Seewald, secretary-treasurer, and Fred B. Ryons, executive officer.

The Eastern Cadet Corps Club embraces 140 members. Officers are Morris Krucoff, president; Robert E. Lee, vice president; Edward Smolinski, secretary-treasurer, and Frank Lindsay, executive officer. It is the second rifle club chartered at the school.

Thursday's Mat Card Is Well Rounded One

Thursday night's show at the Auditorium shapes up as one of the best ever sponsored by Joe Turner, who has a yen for putting on wrestling performances. The Duseks, Rudy and Ernie, who are cofeatured, will hold up their end of the entertainment, if their respective opponents, Hans Kampfer and Fred Grobmier, enter into the spirit of the thing, and the prelims have been arranged in such a manner as to leave nothing to be desired.

Fans will particularly watch Karl Davis, Ohio State alumnus, who looks good for a stay of several months in this vicinity. Davis meets up with ferocious Frank Brunowicz, the Bronx bumble-bee, who nearly always manages to lose to the favorite.

The other matches are Jean Ledeux vs. Everett Marshall, and Tom Alley vs. Marshall Blackstock. Women with paid escorts will be admitted free.

Dougherty to Captain Navy's 1933 Mat Team

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 27.—The election of Midshipman Joseph E. Dougherty, class of 1935, of Bywood, Philadelphia, as captain of the Naval Academy Wrestling Team for next season, was announced today. Barton E. Day, of River Ridge, N. J., was chosen manager.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 27.

DEAR AL:

Capt. Red kept me out of the red today. In fact, the good old Captain saved me from a shutout for which I am grateful, indeed. Everything considered, it was a tough day for your pal, Bill. My selections looked like winners at the stretch turn on several occasions, but it just wasn't our day. And I take back that crack about Her Hero being faint-hearted. Tonight, just to change my luck, I didn't consult the books. Trying a little psychology on the card for tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—TETRARCHAL is the big surprise package that I have dug up for you. True, this one ran out of the pay today, but I understand it was only the warm-up. Get on the line. JUDGE PRIMROSE and SINGLE STAR hold plenty of speed and should battle it out for the place.

SECOND RACE—AQUATIS is a clever juvenile and seems ideally placed among these. Coucci will do the riding and I expect no mistakes. LUCK IN has shown some fair form and should take the place from GENTEEL LADY.

THIRD RACE—Looks like they want 10-1 or nothing on my old friend, KAI-FINN. This one has speed to burn, so I'm told by the boys boating in from Havana. Should be a price today after those recent failures. GOLDEN EFFORT and SEMESTER for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—JUDGE SCHILLING should be taken behind the paddock and started on a trip to horse heaven if he misses a purse in this. Appears a standout both on races and trials. The unlucky CLAREMONT for the place. STARBOARD LIGHT, if sent back, might figure in the coin distribution at the light weight.

FIFTH RACE—I'm naming TRY IT —yes, and I'm ducking. They can kid some of the people, but not the Bennings interests. This one is ready for another wake-up. LIVE ONE'S last was a beaut and must be beaten. SPUD to account for the show end.

SIXTH RACE—LAURA GAL has finally reached top form and is going to be mighty hard to handle from now on. DARKLING ran fairly well last out and has the edge on FLOWER DAY for the place award.

SEVENTH RACE — BLACKMOCK and WACKET, both in excellent shape at this time, seem headed for a stretch battle in the final. RUANE likes more distance but may be up in time to figure.

Wood, Runyan Beat Par at Pinehurst

Card 68, 69 in Charity Exhibition Preceding North-South.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 27 (A.P.).—Some of the hiftiest golf displayed at Pinehurst in many a day was trotted out here this afternoon to usher in the Thirty-first annual North and South open, which gets under way tomorrow with a crack field of 90 pros and amateurs participating.

Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., who lost last year's playoff for the title to Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn., and Paul Runyan, the White Plains, N. Y., sharpshooter, did most of the shellacking.

Subpar Rounds for Wood And Runyan.

They played an exhibition match with Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, winner of the Charleston open last week, and Gene Sarazen, former national open champion, and were clocked in 68 and 69, respectively, for the par 71 championship layout.

The exhibition was the first of a series arranged by a committee headed by Johnny Farrell, the Quaker Ridge, N. Y., pro, for the benefit of unemployed professionals. A big Pinehurst gallery contributed almost $1,000 to the fund. The second match of the series will be played the day preceding the national open.

Wood had two subpar rounds of 35 and 33 for his 68. He was 1 under par going out and 2 under coming in.

Runyan shot a 32 and 37. His 3 under out round was the result of an eagle on the par 4 fifth hole.

Armour, Off Badly, Ends With 73.

Armour, after a bad start, finished with a 73. Sarazen had a 39, 36—75, and Hagen, who captured the Charleston open with a fine score of 282 for 72 holes, had to be content with a 39, 40—79.

It was Armour's second round of the day. He played this morning and shot 18 consecutive pars.

Other good practice rounds were turned in by Henry Picard, young Charleston professional who finished one stroke behind Hagen last week, and Tony Manero, the Elmsford, N. Y., Italian. Picard had a 70 and Manero hugged par for 18 holes with a 71.

Most of First Flight Pros On Hand.

Virtually the entire professional caravan moved up from Charleston. The North and South is one of the big money events of the season as well as one of the richest in tradition. The first 15 pros will share in virtually $5,000, of which $1,200 goes to the winner, $800 to second place and $600 to third.

The amateurs are headed by Tommy Goodwin, young Monroe, N. Y., expert, who was a consistent winner during the Florida season.

The tournament is for 72 holes, 36 tomorrow and a like number Wednesday.

D. & H. Five Evens Series With Grays

Takes Thriller, 26 to 25; Mercurys Split in A. A. U. Games.

Delaware & Hudson evened up its series with the United Typewriter Grays in the Community Center League play-off last night at Tech High School, winning by a score of 26-25, but only because Barney Kane and Bub Wiler were too excited to sink foul shots awarded them in the final minute of play.

Played in conjunction with the A. A. U. tournament, sponsored by The Post, the fray attracted a large throng. In the tournament games Mercury tossers divided honors, losing to Rhode Island Avenue, 32-27, in the 145-pound class, and winning over Northeast Boys Club, 28-26, in the 130-pound class.

Kane stepped up to the 15-foot mark for the Grays with less than a minute to go. A few moments before he saw Tony Latona bring his team within striking distance of the foe, but all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't make that ball go in for Barney.

But again Dame Fortune smiled on the Grays and Wiler drew a foul just as the tinny blast of the timekeeper's whistle ended hostilities. Larger than the Empire State Building loomed Wiler's opportunity of becoming a hero, but the leather bounded off and D. and H. took the bacon.

Gabby Hartnett's successful potshot in the final minute of the 130-pound fray swung the victory to his team. With Vermillion, a teammate, and Smith, center for the Northeast team, Hartnett shared scoring honors of the game.

Mercury assumed a 15-14 lead in the first half, but Northeast tied the score midway in the final period and they fought it out on a point-for point basis until Hartnett came through with the winning points.

Mercury also assumed the lead in the 145-pound encounter. It was ahead by a 16-13 score at the half, but once Bernie Reichhardt focused his weather eye on the hoop, Rhode Island Avenue was unstoppable. The former Tech High star scored 14 points.

Buckholtz and Fitzgerald played well for the Southwest aggregation, and were chiefly responsible for their team's early lead.

Millers and Marines Southeast Victors

The Marions were pushed and mauled right out of further competition in the Southeast Community Center basket ball tournament when Miller Furniture Co. took their measure to the tune of 53 to 11 at Hine Junior High last night.

In the second game, the Marines and Whirlwinds staged a great battle, the former winning out, 37 to 30. Pepco Barry kept the Whirlwinds up in front until the very last, with 10 double pointers, many of them from different angles. Eaton and Morrison were the shining lights for the Marines.

Tomorrow night's games will see the Marines stack up against Naval Reserves at 7:15, and Friendship House will tackle Miller Furniture Co. at 8:15.

Golfwomen List 36 Events

District Title Event June 19-23; Quaker Cityans Invade.

THIRTY-SIX events, including intercity matches with Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond, the Maryland State championship at Five Farms June 6-10, the District tournament at Kenwood June 19-23 and the Middle Atlantic championship at Richmond October 16-20, were approved yesterday by the executive committee of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association at a meeting held yesterday at the home of the president, Miss Elizabeth C. Harris.

The program of events announced by the tournament committee, of which Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely is chairman, is probably the most ambitious in local tournament history, and definitely establishes the District association as one of the most active in the country.

Team Matches April 3 At Kenwood.

Opening with the first team matches at Kenwood on April 3, the schedule is of such a heavy nature that the women golfers will be kept unusually busy. The crowning event of the season comes off at Richmond, Va., October 16 to 20, with the staging of the Middle Atlantic championship at the James River course of the Country Club of Virginia. Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes is the defending champion.

Held last season at Manor, and won by Mrs. Dorothy White Nicholson, the important District tournament shifts to Kenwood June 19 to 23, the home course of the association president.

Home-and-home matches with Baltimore and Richmond are slated, the District women going down to the Virginia capital on May 25-26 and playing a return match a week later at Chevy Chase and Army and Navy.

Philadelphia Women Here in May.

Outstanding on the calendar is the visit of the crack Philadelphia women's team to Washington on May 13-14. Congressional will be the scene of the first day's play, with Manor taking over the spotlight the final day. Such distinguished players as Glenna Collett Vare and Dorothy Campbell Hurd are expected to be in the visiting ranks.

Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, of Chevy Chase, is captain of the local District team.

Goslin, Older and Balder, Still Boasts Fiery Swing

Yearned to Return to Nats After Johnson's Release.

Special to The Washington Post.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—Older, somewhat more subdued, and getting as bald as the third cartoon in the Going, Going, Gone ads, Goose Goslin trudged back to the bench yesterday after rolling out to second base—a trick he has been doing consistently enough to be elected president of the "I'm-in-a-Slump" guild.

"What's the matter, Goose? You can't get that batting eye."

A few years ago Goose would have wheeled around and rasped, "Me? I could knock that ball outa the lot any time I want to. I just don't wanna make them babies feel bad, that's all."

But Goose is older these days. Those two years and a half with St. Louis amounted to five. All he'll say is, "It's early in the year yet. I'll get going."

Yearned to Return To Washington.

The nearest thing to a Babe Ruthian slugger Washington has ever had, Goslin dropped below .300 last year for only the second time since coming to Washington and the big leagues in 1921. He never liked St. Louis. He was only waiting to get back to Washington.

He began looking up train schedules to the Capital the day he read that Walter Johnson had been released as manager. That's a pretty old story by now. A minimum of love lay between those two—the greatest pitcher and the greatest slugger ever to play for Washington. Like many a classic baseball feud it rose over some picayunish incident. Some dispute came up between the two over a golf match—how many strokes one of them had on a certain hole—and the thing broadened into a first rat war, with neither side willing to give an inch.

It was the real cause of Goose's going to St. Louis, in a trade that brought Heinie Manush and Al Crowder here in June, 1930. Goslin had written Griffith a letter at the start of the 1930 season stating that he refused to play under Johnson. Griff, Goslin's No. 1 ranking fan, took the only course he could take, getting rid of the Goose to preserve the tranquillity of the team—but he didn't do it blindly; he executed one of his keenest trades, getting two of the game's greatest players in exchange for one great one.

Same Old Goose At the Plate.

Now the Goose is back. Goose felt in his bones Griffith would bring him "home" the minute he read the Johnson story last fall. He's looking forward eagerly to the chance to get back to the city where he made his debut—a clownish debut—half a generation ago.

He's the same old Goose up at the plate. The catchers give him plenty of room. He swings on balls with a speed that renders his bat invisible and—when he misses—dumps him into the dust.

St. Louis, which used to be a great brewing center, sobered Goose up. He talks of "making good" with Washington. He goes about finding his missing batting eye with the same old confidence of yore, except that it's not verbal any more.

GOOSE GOSLIN.

MYER AND SCHULTE SLAM HOME RUNS

the stands by singling to right and good old Fred Schulte doubled him home. Aside from that it looked as though Cronin's pep talk had worn off, Washington going hitless in three of the last five innings.

Whitehill Wild at Start.

Earl Whitehill, who played his first organized baseball with Birmingham in 1920, had a bit of trouble getting his range and was knicked for a couple of runs in the first inning, helped by a brace of walks. After Corjazzo, the first man to face him in the second inning, had singled to left, Earl held the Baronial bats silent until he retired after the fifth inning in favor of Monte Weaver, the educated pitcher.

Monte did very well indeed, until the ninth. Winetraub, the first man to bat against him when he came in at the sixth inning, singled, but from then on Monte held the boys hitless until one out in the ninth when Whitehouse (sure they have one down here, too) singled, followed by Willetts' roller which Bob Boken, substituting for Joe Kuhel at first, threw wild, permitting Abernathy, whom Monte had walked, to score. The Baron Munschausers scored their second run when Berres, their catcher, sent Goose Goslin back to the fence on a fly and Whitehouse sauntered home on Goose's friendly throw-in.

The Katzenjammer Kids, Bud Thomas and fat Ed Linke, pitch tomorrow.

Exhausted runners today brought word from Selma, Ala., where Chattanooga is training, that Bobby Burke had had three molars erased by the team dentist, who decided that it was these teeth that were making his left arm pain. Some Roots!

SHORT PANTS.

The gents are dispensing a fine brand of split infinitives over Birmingham's radio station daily. Yesterday Altrock and Schacht, today Cronin, Griffith, Crowder. Tomorrow, Goslin, Manush and Myer. . . . John Temple Graves, former District tennis champion, is a page one, column one, columnist with the News-Herald . . . Zeb Milan, manager of the Barons, says Sam Rice is better than ever. . . . Zeb knows how to arrange a schedule for his team . . . Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Baltimore Symphony Orchestra will be heard in the first broadcast of its history when it presents a program over a network including Station WMAL tonight.

The orchestra, which plays under the baton of George Siemonn, former faculty member of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, is unique in that it is the only symphonic group financed entirely out of a city tax budget.

The 85-piece organization will be heard in the following program:

Prelude to "Die Meistersinger" ..... Wagner

Tone Poem, "Tod Und Verklarung" ..... Strauss

"Caprice Espagnol" ..... Rimsky-Korsakoff

The broadcast will conclude the Baltimore Orchestra's eighteenth consecutive season of concerts.

YOSUKE MATSUOKA, Japanese spokesman, who is on his way home after dramatically leading his delegation out of the League of Nations, will discuss "Japan and America" over the network which includes WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

The Nipponese diplomat arrived in this country on March 24 for a three-week stay. It is his purpose to explain Japan's position to the American people. Matsuoka's address will be picked up from the Astor Hotel, where he will be the guest at a testimonial dinner tendered by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce of New York.

Had it not been for the timely efforts of the village fire department, of Mason, Ohio, the location of the WLW transmitter plant, the station literally would have been washed off the air as the result of the torrential rain storm which precipitated one of the most severe floods in the history of Cincinnati and vicinity last week.

The fire department was called after more than two feet of water had filled the high voltage room of the transmitter plant to a point where but six more inches of water would have silenced the station.

Five hours were required for the fire fighters to pump the water out.

Preparations for one of the greatest art exhibits ever held in this country, which is to open at the Chicago World's Fair on June 1, will be discussed by Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art Institute of Chicago (WMAL, 4:45 p. m.).

A MESSAGE from the First Lady of the Land, Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt, and a brief talk by Amelia Earhart will be features of the program commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the entry of women into business and the invention of the typewriter to be broadcast over WJSV at 10:45 o'clock tonight.

The broadcast will be under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Other features will be the sounds emitted by the first typewriter model to be perfected, an address by Mrs. Richard C. Spear, honorary president of the "Y," and the reading of messages from Mrs. Fortier, daughter of the inventor of the writing-machine, and from Miss Orr, the oldest woman secretary in the country.

The ancient washboard played by one of the colored members of "The Lowland Singers" is carried in and out of the studio in a snappy leather suitcase.

When Dr. Julius Klein, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce, addresses the New York Advertising Club today (WOR, 1:15 p. m.), he may say to Secretary of Commerce Roper, "Stop kicking by houn' dawg around'," referring to his pet Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which Secretary Roper has announced he will put a crimp into.

"I enjoy Eddie Cantor as much as ever," a listener writes, "but I am getting my fill of Rubinoff and his violin. Likewise of Rubinoff's orchestra, which I think is very poor."

Eddie, since he played in the Capital, has been telling quite a few jokes with a Washington flavor. He exclaimed from New Orleans last Sunday night, "Barbers shave people more quickly now than they used to."

"Why is that?" Jimmy Wallington asked.

"Because since Roosevelt has been President their faces are not so long."

Later the comedian observed: "Under the new economy act a congressman will order two glasses of beer. He will drink one and let the other settle."

GERMAINE, the Little French Girl, will do another in the series of programs designed to revive memories of France for all French people living in the Capital, will be on WMAL at 5 o'clock this afternoon . . . Evelyn Hayes, who has become a popular radio entertainer since she started her engagement at the Madrillon about a month ago, will do her first afternoon broadcast over WRC at 2:30 o'clock today . . . Diane and Don, who are doing one of the best dramatic shows ever presented by local talent, will be on the WRC wave length at 6:30 o'clock . . . And Arthur Godfrey, with his conversational style which makes the listener think each remark is addressed to him, personally, is doing a splendid job with the two-hour WMAL breakfast Club, heard each week day morning, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Harry Klein, "mayor" of Yorkville, the German district of New York City, and Helen Worden, society editor of a New York newspaper, will take radio listeners on an imaginary tour of Yorkville during a broadcast over WRC at 2:45 p. m.

Yorkville is famous for its old breweries, many of which are now preparing to resume activity, and its beer gardens, canary shows, bartenders-union and German opera. It comprises all of Manhattan Island from Fifty-ninth to 110th streets east of Central Park.

Moss and Jones tell of the man who dreamed he was pall bearer at the funeral of an efficiency expert. As they were ready to bear the coffin away the efficiency expert raised up, looked around and said, "Boys, if you put rollers under it I can lay off five of you."

Bencher of Central Park Has Skeleton Seatmate

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—It didn't help James G. Lern's peace of mind any to find a skeleton, with its legs crossed, suddenly sitting beside him on a bench in Central Park today.

Lern hurried away to Patrolman Pinsker, who took the skeleton to a police station. An assistant medical examiner said it had probably been placed on the bench by a medical student. It was taken to the Bellevue morgue.

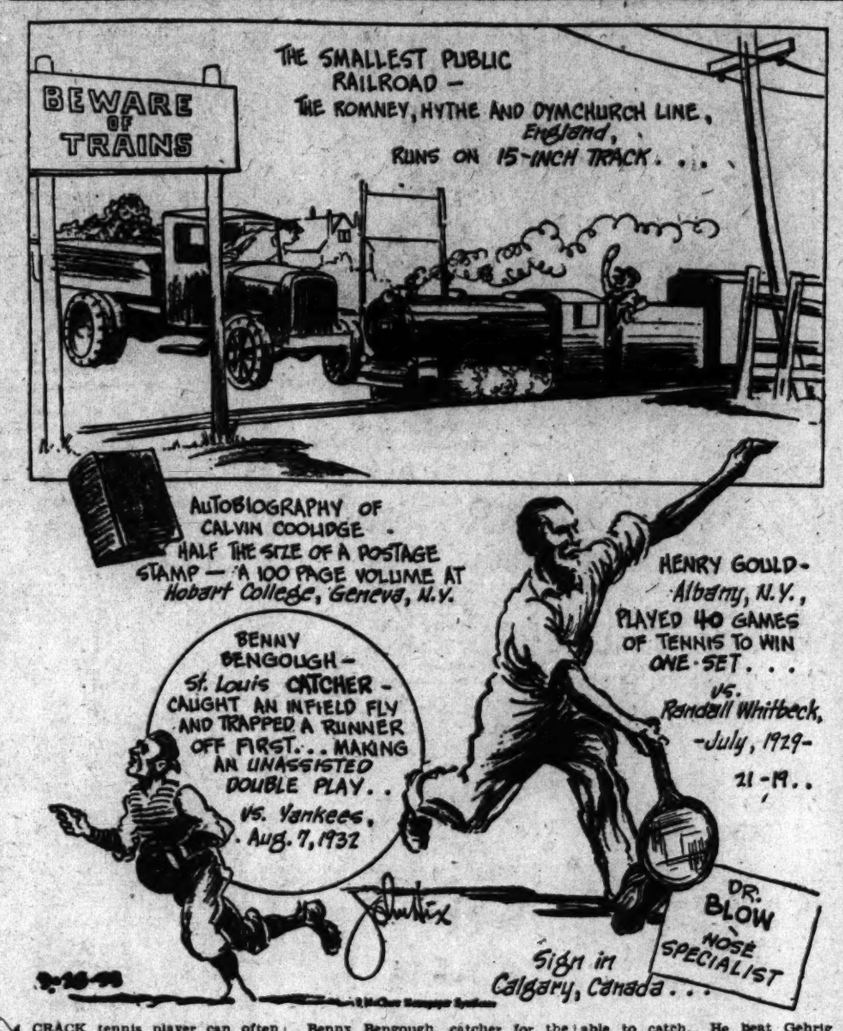
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



A CRACK tennis player can often win a set of tennis in six games unless he is playing another crack player, and then he might play forever without winning. This almost happened in Albany, N. Y., when Henry Gould played Randall Whitbeck in July, 1929, 40 games in one set. Gould, who was formerly captain of his school team, finally won over Whitbeck, a classmate, 21 to 19.

Benny Bengough, catcher for the St. Louis Browns, made a strange unassisted double for a man playing at the plate, when he caught a pop infield fly and then ran to first to catch another player off base. On an attempted sacrifice Lazzeri, of the Yanks, tried to advance Gehrig by bunting, but the bunt resulted in a short pop fly which Bengough was able to catch. He beat Gehrig to first.

England's little railroad, the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch, which runs on a 15-inch track, could lay a double track between the rails of a standard track and still have room for a footpath. The standard track is 4 feet 8½ inches from rail to rail —or nearly four times the distance between the rails on the Romney line.

GRATITUDE.

I walked a path,
You crossed it.
I had a heart,
I lost it.

I had a soul,
You drew it
Right out of me

I offered love,
You scorned it;
You took my ring
And pawned it.

But I forgive
You, honey.
I'm glad I kept
My money.

There are two parts to tomorrow night's program: First, Dr. Irving Langmuir, Nobel Prize winner in chemistry, and associate director of the General Electric Co.'s research laboratories in Schnectady, N. Y., will discuss "Surface Chemistry," and Dr. Hans Kindler will conduct the National Symphony Orchestra in the attached program.

The symphony program follows:

Keen Theft

Freight-Car Robber Need Not Go to Barber Rest of Life.

Two millions shaves were stolen yesterday.

With a slide rule and some imagination, such a figure is the result arrived at by multiplying cartons by packages, by blades per package, by an estimate on the number of times a blade will function.

The 100 cartons, each of 200 packages, each of 10 blades, were taken from a freight car at Four-and-a-half and E streets southwest, it was reported to police by railway authorities. The loot was valued at $1,000.

Navy Band Concert Canceled.

The regular Wednesday evening concert of the United States Navy Band has been canceled this week due to an official engagement.

CHARLES E. MONROE IS HONORED BY 3,000 AS SCIENTISTS MEET

American Chemical Society Told Foreign Monopolies Are Decreasing.

Dr. Charles Edward Monroe, chief explosives chemist of the Bureau of Mines and sole surviving charter member of the American Chemical Society, was honored last night at a dinner at the Willard Hotel by members of the society gathered here for its eighty-fifth meeting.

Praising Dr. Monroe as the inventor of smokeless powder, Prof. Arthur B. Lamb, of Harvard University, president of the society, declared that his greatest works were "not found in the scientific papers that he has published nor in the dangerous researches he has made in the hearts and lives of the thousands he has taught."

The elderly Federal scientist, who might be called the dean of American chemists, was presented with a diamond membership pin and a gift of gold coin from the United States Mint, whose operations he once supervised.

Economy in Government.

Governmental economy, the watchword of industry in these days, was urged by Harry L. Derby, president of the American Cynamid & Chemical Corporation, before the opening session.

Speaking before the 3,000 scientists who have assembled at the society's eighty-fifth meeting, the industrialist called for the elimination of millions of dollars from Federal and local expenditures and urged a tariff to protect the chemical industry, which is faced, he said, with the threat of foreign competition through depreciated currency.

"Temporary unemployment relief, expenditures for self-liquidating construction, maintenance of our defensive forces are all essential if kept within reason," he said, "but we all know that hundreds of millions of dollars could be eliminated from Federal and local expenditures without vitally affecting the functions of Government or the welfare of the people."

Possession of Raw Material.

The iconoclastic results of the developments of chemistry were stressed by Prof. Hugh S. Taylor, head of the department of chemistry of Princeton University, when he addressed the group on international phases of chemistry.

"The difficulties which arise in world politics from the distribution of mineral and natural resources may be intensified because progress in scientific and, most often, chemical achievements may profoundly modify the extent of power accruing from the possession of raw materials," he declared.

He attributed Chile's troubles and heavy taxation as a direct result of the curtailment of her nitrate exports because processes have been developed for the use of the nitrogen in the air, as an illustration of chemistry's relation to "international friendships and hatreds."

Payment of Tribute.

Dr. C. M. A. Stine, vice president of E. I. de Pont de Nemours & Co., predicted a great advance in all industry through cooperation with the chemical industry, in his talk at the opening gathering.

Through chemistry, he said, the United States has been relieved of the payment of tribute to foreign nations, citing the advent of the synthetic nitrogen industry which has cut the price of nitrate in half.

Concerted action by the technical and scientific organizations of the Nation was urged to solve its economic problems by Charles Kettering, vice president in charge of research of the General Motors Corporation.

Shropshire, Mann Act Violator, Is Sentenced

Homer B. Shropshire, 20, convicted a week ago of charges of violating the Mann act, was sentenced to serve from 1 to 4 years in jail yesterday by Chief Justice A. A. Wheat in the District Supreme Court.

Shropshire was convicted of bringing a young woman here from Roanoke, Va., for immoral purposes. This girl, Della Wills, is an expectant mother, it was revealed at the trial. Another charge, involving a second girl, is pending against Shropshire. Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica prosecuted the case.

CROWDS ATTEND JEWISH PROTEST MEETING

The alleged persecution of Jews in Germany was protested by more than 3,000 persons last night who packed the Belasco Theater to hear local clergymen of all creeds and prominent citizens speak against the Hitler policy. Upper—The Rev. John H. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Council, is shown addressing the gathering from the stage occupied by the other speakers. Lower—A portion of the audience which filled every seat in the house and stood in the lobby during meeting.

RANDOLPH ASSAILS 'POLITICAL PIRATES'

Congress Member Speaks Before North Capitol Citizens' Group.

Roundly denouncing the "political pirate" and the "stock broker statesman," Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), West Virginia, last night in an address before the North Capitol Citizens Association asked the whole-hearted support of the people of the District in backing President Roosevelt and the new administration.

"The time has come when the stock broker statesman and the political pirate must be eradicated from the face of the earth," the representative said. "I speak to you not as Republicans or Democrats, but as citizens of the United States, whose sole objective now is to bring this Nation through the present crisis, and that job can be done only if we all work together unbiasedly and unselfishly."

Mr. Randolph set forth three points on which, he declared, the success of any individual, State or Nation depends. They are hard work, integrity and honor and faith.

Henry Gilligan, former president of the association and member of the Board of Education, was indorsed as a candidate for District Commissioner. A resolution was passed asking the invocation of the old law prohibiting the sale of intoxicants within 1 mile of Soldiers' Home.

BanquetConducted By Alpha Delta Phi

Roosevelt Sends Greeting to His Fraternity as Does Woodin.

The local chapter of President Roosevelt's fraternity—Alpha Delta Phi—held its annual banquet last night at the University Club. Secretary of the Treasury Woodin is also a member. The President and his Cabinet members did not attend, but sent messages of good wishes.

Walter Wilcox, author, spoke on his experiences in the Canadian Rockies. A poem dedicated to President Roosevelt was read by Duane E. Fox, its author. Resolutions expressing confidence in the Roosevelt administration were adopted.

Those present included Chief Justice Wheat, of the District Supreme Court; Norman J. Wall, the Rev. George F. Dudley, the Rev. Albert J. McCartney, the Rev. W. L. De Vries, the Rev. F. S. Cookman, William R. Vallance, Surgeon General Robert M. Patterson, Wayland Magee, former member of the Federal Reserve Board; H. Tudor Morsell, Representative Ray P. Chase, of Minnesota, and Edward C. Eicher, of Iowa, and Odell S. Smith. William L. Clarke, president of the chapter, presided.

2 Bank Reorganization Undertakings Progress

Continuance of stock subscription to the proposed Potomac National Bank was reported yesterday by officials of Potomac Savings Bank, to the business of which the national institution is expected to succeed.

Membership of the depositors' committee which will plan for the reorganization and reopening of Commercial National Bank will be announced within a day or two, according to Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of that institution.

TESTS DIVISION COST RAPPED AT SESSION

Attack Is Made by Cleaver at Meeting of Mid-City Citizens' Group.

Claims that substantial reductions in the cost of District government can be made with the abolition of the office of Division of Tests and the restoration of the office of Inspector of Asphalts and Cements, were made last night in a petition brought before a meeting of the Mid-City Citizens Association by Vernon Cleaver, former head of the office of Inspector of Asphalts and Cements.

Mr. Cleaver, who is now a member of the department of Division of Tests, says the petition. The office of Inspector of Asphalts and Cements operated under a cost of approximately $43,900 per year. The Division of Tests is costing $80,000 per year."

He said he held the position of directing head of the office of inspector of asphalts and cements for nine years at a salary of $3,400 per annum, and that in 1930 the office was discontinued and that H. F. Clemmer was put in charge at a salary of $4,800 per annum.

The executive committee of the association voted to take the matter under advisement.

E. E. Swan, assistant treasurer of the American Security & Trust Co., in charge of the central branch, discussed in general the banking situation and urged people to have faith in their banking institutions.

Following a short business session the operation of the District penal system was discussed by Col. William L. Peake, superintendent of the District Jail.

Baseball Players To Use Vacant Lots

Trinidad Citizens Appoint Group to Have Plots Put in Shape.

Arrangements for converting vacant lots in the Northeast section of the city into baseball diamonds were made last night by the Trinidad Citizens Association. A committee of three men was appointed to arrange for putting unemployed men to work on all available plots.

A letter to Director of Traffic William A. Van Duzer was drafted by the association, asking his consideration of its proposal for all-night traffic lights. Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals was criticized for delaying the laying of a sidewalk on Florida avenue from Second to Sixth streets northeast.

A resolution was adopted commending Inspector Albert Headley for the efficient handling of the Communistic outbreak on March 6.

"Be Careful!"

REGRETTING ERROR, WOMAN HANGS SELF

Police Cut Her Down From Bedpost; Leaves $500 and Diamonds.

Leaving a penciled note on the back of a box of stationery to the effect that she was unable to stand her last mistake in life, Mrs. Mary Kelsey, 24, hanged herself to a headpost of the bed in her second-floor apartment at 903 Tenth street northwest yesterday morning.

The body was found, suspended by a cloth belt, by Cyril Forgus, of 926 New York avenue, who went to investigate when she failed to report for work at Twelfth and G streets northwest, where she was an elevator operator.

After receiving no response to his continuous knocking on the door, Forgus climbed to a window, cut out the screen and entered to find the bedroom dark. A few minutes later he found the young woman.

Police cut the belt from her neck and she was pronounced dead by an Emergency Hospital interne. A certificate of suicide was issued by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

The message the woman left asked that her sister, Mrs. J. W. Oden, of Derwood, Md., be notified and that all her personal effects, including three diamond rings, a fur coat and about $500, be turned over to Mrs. Oden. It made no explanation of what she termed her "last mistake."

Mrs. Kelsey, police were informed, had been separated from her husband a number of years.

212 Applications Filed To Sell Beer in District

Applications for licenses to sell beer in the District totaled 212 when the District Building closed yesterday afternoon. Ninety-two arrived in the mails over the week-end.

Fourteen stitches were required to close the scalp lacerations suffered by 5-year-old Mary Calodney, 1100 Twenty-third street northwest, after she was knocked down by an automobile on Twenty-third street between L and M streets northwest yesterday afternoon.

Aw, Beans!

Soy Variety Finds Depression Helps Its Advance, Expert Says.

The lowly soy bean has made the grade!

This is the opinion of Jethro Kloss, Washington food expert, who says that, using the depression as an opportunity, the struggling bean has gained prominence on the American menu.

It was the mainstay of the following menu served yesterday to members of the Department of Agriculture and Washington hotel executives at a dinner arranged by Miss Mary A. Kindsley, managing director of the Dodge Hotel:

Herb broth, celery hearts, radishes, French toast, malt honey, sweetbreads a la Kloss, sprouted soy beans, potato puff, fresh asparagus milanaise, corn pone, raw vegetable salad, pumpkin pie, strawberry sundae, sanka.

SUBMETERING CASE WON BY POWER FIRM AFTER LONG BATTLE

Court of Appeals Approves Pepco Control of Resale of Electricity.

In two opinions issued yesterday, the District Court of Appeals first affirmed and then reaffirmed a decision of the District Supreme Court holding that the Potomac Electric Power Co. was within its rights when it attempted to regulate the resale of electric current through "submetering."

The first opinion declared that the Pepco had the right to make all reasonable rules and regulations in the proper conduct of its business. One of the company's rules provided for a ban on submetering so that there would be uniform rates to all retail users of power.

Defendants in Prior Suit.

The defendants in the prior suit, Myron P. Lewis, Robert A. Nordblom and Fred D. Jordan, were described as being the owners of a large store and office building.

They purchased current through wholesale rates, and then submetered it to tenants in the building "at the rate charged by the power company to its retail consumers."

Movement in 1929.

In 1929 the company threatened to cut off the current unless the practice was discontinued and the owners sought an injunction to prevent this action. Among other factors that swayed the Appellate Court was the one that "the rule is a reasonable protection to the revenues of the company. It is also a prevention of discrimination."

Attorneys S. R. Bowen and John S. Barbour represented the power company, Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, intervened, and the Public Utilities Commission was represented by William A. Roberts and Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride.

The second case, affirming the desion, was brought by Joseph J. Moebs.

Bennett, Policeman, Suspended in Rum Case

Patrolman James D. Bennett, of the Ninth Precinct, was suspended yesterday on charges of being intoxocated while on duty. It is charged that he was found riding in a car when he was supposed to have been patroling his beat. He will be cited for trial before the Police Trial Board.

Last June, Bennett was tried on a similar charge and the Trial Board recommended his dismissal. The Commissioners set aside the recommendation and ordered a fine of $100.

City Water's Pollution By Coal Tar Avoided

Chemists at the District filtration plant announced last night that no evidence of the coal tar found floating in the Potomac River near Antietam, Md., would be discernible in the city's water supply either through taste or discoloration.

It was stated that only about 100 gallons of tar fell into the river, and it was completely diluted before reaching the reservoir. The plant was prepared to use neutralizing chemicals, the chemists declared, but it was not found necessary.

"The Fox" Jailed; Wanted in Florida

Plea Granted Bondsman Here; Stolen-Car Case Conviction Upheld.

Despite his voluble protestations, Norman T. Whittaker, known as "The Fox" in the plan by which Gaston B. Means obtained $100,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean for the promised return of the Lindbergh baby, yesterday was ordered committed to jail by Chief Justice A. A. Wheat when his bondsman, Milton Kronheim, surrendered him.

Mr. Kronheim explained that Whittaker, who was convicted in Florida of violating the Dyer act, which has to do with taking stolen automobiles across State boundaries, had taken an appeal. He said the Florida courts had just affirmed the conviction and he asked that he be released from the $10,000 bond Whittaker posted here following his indictment.

The charge against him here is that of conspiring to commit grand larceny in the Means case. Whittaker got a sentence of three years in Florida and that State is expected to send a requisition for him unless he agrees to go back voluntarily.

LEONARD, VETERAN OF MARINES, GIVEN CITY POST BACKING

Major, Who Defended Gen. Butler, Now Mentioned for Commissioner.

By J. BERNARD M'DONNELL.

With final selections still undecided, a new name, that of Maj. Henry Leonard, U. S. M. C., retired, has bobbed up to be presented to President Roosevelt with considerable backing when he comes to select the new District Commissioners.

Maj. Leonard is the one-armed veteran of Marine Corps battles who acted as counsel for Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, erstwhile commandant of the Marine Corps post at Quantico, when the general accused Benito Mussolini of being a brutal hit-and-run driver. He is credited with being one of the cleverest lawyers ever to have been graduated from the Marine Corps.

He is popular in society and his wife was a member of the District delegation which attended the Chicago Democratic convention at which Col. Arthur O'Brien battled so hard against having the delegation recorded in favor of the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt as John F. Costello, national committeeman, said it was to be recorded. Mrs. Leonard refused to take her job lightly and sat throughout the night ready to leap into the breach should the Roosevelt majority weaken and go wearily to their hotel beds.

Emery's Claims Advanced.

Maj. Leonard has been quietly advanced by several of his friends who believe he would make an admirable commissioner. He is not and has not been a member of the local Democratic organization. That may count against him.

Aside from the addition of the name of Maj. Leonard the battle for District places is going merrily forward, with most of the candidates having no chance of appointment.

The friends of Fred A. Emery insist on advancing his name. Mr. Emery has the advantage of being a Washington newspaper reporter of long experience and many friends on Capitol Hill. He is said to have the support of many. He was one of the founders of the National Press Club, is president of the Society of Natives, vice president of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, a figure in the Columbia Historical Society and is a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations. He has not been, however, active in local political affairs. He has kept aloof from them. He is not numbered among those on whom the local Democratic organization can depend for aid. That would indicate he will not have the support of the local Democratic leaders.

Other Prominent Aspirants.

Other serious candidates whose friends believe they have a chance include Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, reputed protege of Admiral Cary T. Grayson; George W. Offutt, indorsed by most of the trade associations of the District and by Col. Robert N. Harper, former president of the District National Bank; Ernest G. Walker, who deprecates talk about possibility of his selection; Malcolm McConihee, who would have the support of several elements if he jumped into the fight; John B. Colpoys, chairman of the Democratic central committee of the District, who insists that he does not want to be District Commissioner and means what he says, as well as a reputed dark horse whose identity has not been disclosed.

This latest dark horse is said to be sponsored by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Robert Woolley, although both are said to have denied to organization leaders they are trying to put through a man of their own. To these names are to be added a long list of others already mentioned, most of whom have no chance, despite the fact that among them are several who are recognized as life-long Democrats in District Democratic party activities.

Montana State Society Is Organized in Capital

Robert C. Leary was selected temporary president at the organization of the Montana State Society last night. Philip Roche was named temporary secretary, and William O'Mahoney, temporary treasurer.

Permanent officers will be elected at the next meeting on April 3.

Lieut. Arrowsmith Transferred.

First Lieut. John C. Arrowsmith, Corps of Engineers, now on duty in the office of the district engineer, San Francisco, Calif., has been relieved from his post there and will come here in the office of the chief of engineers.
